DEWEY REVIEWS A MONSTER PARADE

Presented With a Magnificent Loving Cup, the Gift of New York City, Amid Cheering Thousands.

ADMIRAL DEWEY From His Latest Photograph

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The second day of New York city's official welcome to Admiral Dewey opened clear and cool. There was hardly a cloud in the sky and the temperature was just low enough to keep the crowds on the move for warmth. Many people were out at sunrise to secure desirable points from which to view the parade, but lower Broadway was well filled with those who were anxious to have a look at Dewey on his way to the City Hall, whether they were to see the great parade or not.

The first ceremony was the presentation at the City Hall of a gold loving cup to the Admiral by Mayor Van Wyck on behalf of the city of New York. At 7 o'clock the police boat Patrol with a special reception committee on board, made up of St. Clair McKelway, Wm. McAdoo, Levi P. Morton, Chauncey M. Depew, Richard Croker and Warren M. Foster started for the Olympia. The Admiral boarded the Patrol, which steamed to the Battery, where the city's guest was met by the following committee: William Berri, General Francis V. Greene, James Stillman, John C. Calhoun, Edward Lauterbach, J. Q. A. Edwards, Chas. Knox, John H. Starin, Warner Van Norden, Justice W. W. Goodrich, Justice Charles M. Van Brunt and O. S. Cookney.

CHEERED ALL THE WAY.

The Admiral, accompanied by the Reception Committee, and escorted by Squadron A and a detail of mounted police, proceeded up Broadway to the City Hall. All along the street were cheering crowds, and the City Hall park was filled to the limit with people who shouted a noisy, enthusiastic welcome as Dewey came in sight. As Admiral Dewey sat in his carriage at the Battery waiting for the line to arrive he was asked if he had any expressions to make concerning the celebration. He replied: "No, I have nothing to say this morning. I have not yet got my eyes open."

FOUR WORKMEN ARE KILLED.

Nitro-Glycerine House at Pinole Destroyed by an Explosion.

(Special to the Tribune.)

PINOLE, Sept. 30. — The semi-annual explosion of the nitro-glycerine house at the California Powder Works, which are located at this place, in Contra Costa county, occurred this morning at 3 o'clock, and, as on previous occasions, there was, as a result, a deploralbe loss of life.

Four of the employes were hurled into eternity.

The remains of three of the unfortunates were found mangled and bleeding in various acclivities of the reservation.

The body of the fourth unfortunate had not, at last accounts, been located. It is presumed that it was either shattered into infinitesimal fragments or else carried to a distance from the scene of the accident greater than was ever known in the history of such happenings at this place.

The victims of the catastrophe are as follows:

JOHN MULHOLLAND, laborer, resident of San Francisco, 28 years old.

W. R. MATTHEWS, laborer, 30 years old, residence Pinole.

WILLIAM TALBOTT, laborer, 40 years old, residence Pinole.

G. T. MORGAN, foreman, aged 25 years, who resided with his father and mother at Pinole.

The victim whose remains have in all probability been scattered to the four winds of heaven was John Mulholland.

The explosion, like many that have preceded it, took place at an early hour. The detonation was terrific. It awoke thousands of echoes in the neighboring hills, and in an instant aroused every slumberer in this town, and indeed in nearly every abiding place for miles around.

Everybody knew that another explosion at the powder works had taken place, and a large number of the residents with a common impulse left their couches, hastily attired themselves and pushed on toward the scene of the accident.

WORKS ON FIRE.

They had been on their way but a moment or more when the sky became suffused with a golden glow, indicating that a fire had broken out in the mill, and flames were destroying the shattered remnants of the structure which had been left standing by the fury of the nitro-glycerine.

From the boarding house on the grounds in which a number of the operatives of the works find shelter, went every man who was in a condition to go, to the rescue. These men were under the leadership of Superintendent Bermingham, the son of the president of the California Powder Company, the owners of the plant.

The explosion had left little of the glycerine house standing, so that there was only a small amount of fuel to feed the flames. No difficulty was, therefore, experienced in extinguishing the fire, thus lessening the danger of greater loss of life in the destruction of other buildings of the plant.

The building destroyed was a frame structure and was erected about nine months ago. It was stocked with new machinery when erected and took the place of a similar structure which was almost completely demolished about 18 months ago. A part of the frame of that structure at that time was left standing but it could not be utilized and had to be torn down. Some of the tubs and vats of the machinery, however, were uninjured, and were afterwards used in various ways, but the connecting tubing and mechanism were rendered valueless.

Since that explosion in the nitre house, another explosion was experienced in the mixing house and attended also with loss of life.

THE DAMAGE.

These structures are located on a part of the reservation of the company, the most distant from the railroad station. They have clung to the western slope of an immense coliseum of hills, and from them, on trestles extending over the floor of the circular inclosure, were pipes connecting with distant structures each having a distinct duty to perform in the manufacture of the explosive products of the place.

The damage is unknown. The officers of the company in the past, on similar occasions, have been silent on that point. They have taken no departure from the practice in this instance.

It is estimated, however, that the property destroyed can be replaced by about $25,000. There was none of the product of the works in the glycerine house at the time of the explosion save what was undergoing the process usually carried on in that part of the plant.

The greatest loss, of course, is that of human life, because all the victims were young men, who, ordinarily, were expected to have a long lease of life, and who must leave sorrowing and bereaved relatives and friends in various parts of the country.

The nitro-glycerine house will be rebuilt as soon as possible. Indeed, the removal of the debris, which is now in progress, has been undertaken with that end in view.

As to the cause of the accident, no one may tell. The tongues of those who might shed some light on the fatality are stilled by death. In that respect the tragedy was complete. In this regard there is but little difference between this accident and preceding blasts. What occasioned it is unknown. Whether negligence or maliciousness is to be charged with the sacrifice cannot be made apparent. In this instance it may be stated, however, that people well versed in such matters hold that the unfortunate victims had a fighting or a running chance for their lives. These experts say that had the three men whose remains have been found on the hillsides been in the glycerine house at the time of the explosion, only shreds of their remains would have been found on the reservation. It is argued, therefore, that Morgan, Matthews and Talbott discovered that an explosion was bound to take place, that it was useless to try to prevent it, and that their only hope of safety was in flight. They had evidently run from the place with a fleetness born of desperation, but the blast came, the concussion followed and, distant as they were from the house, they were blown into the air and life doubtless was extinct when their mangled bodies again reached terra firma.

Less fortunate than these there was poor Mulholland. He must have been unapprised of his danger or unable to profit by it, and paid the awful penalty of absolute annihilation.

Coroner Curry of this county is making arrangements to hold an inquest.

CAPTAIN CARTER ARRESTED.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Captain Oberlin M. Carter was arrested today in this city by Adjutant General Simpson, who came especially from Washington for that purpose. Captain Carter was taken to Governor's Island and handed over to Captain B. J. Roberts, commanding officers, with orders to keep strict guard and put Captain Carter in close confinement. Captain Carter is now in one of the upper casement cells in Castle William. He will be notified of his dismissal from the army and will be handed over to the civil authorities in New York. L. L. Kellogg, of the law firm of Kellogg, Rose & Smith, called upon Captain Roberts and asked permission to see Captain Carter. Mr. Kellogg refused to make a statement on behalf of Captain Carter.

It is alleged in the charges that Carter and certain parties had defrauded the United States out of $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

POLICE WILL MEET AT THE TARGETS.

Captain Peterson of the police force has received a challenge from the sharpshooter team of the San Francisco police force for the riflemen of the local police for a return match at the targets at Shellmound Park. The Captain has notified the men across the bay that their request will be complied with. In the last shoot, the Oakland men were victorious.

CUP CONTEST AT THE GOLF LINKS.

This afternoon the Oakland Golf Club is holding another cup contest on the links at Adams Point. A large gathering assembled to witness the sport.

In the near future the club members will have the benefit of instruction from an Eastern coach. Arrangements are now being made to have some expert Eastern player come to this city to act as instructor.

THIRTY DIE IN A BURNING STEAMER

Terrible Tragedy Occurs in the Waters of a South American River.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—A special dispatch to the Herald from Panama, via Galveston, says:

By the burning of the steamer Monteria of the Columbian Transport line on the Magdalena river a week ago, thirty lives were lost, including that of General Rengiffo, former Secretary of the Treasury of Colombia and Minister to Ecuador. One of the victims was a woman.

The Monteria left Honda, far up the river, on September 17th. She had splendid weather all the way down the stream until she reached a point between El Banco and Magange, two days' steaming from Barranquillo.

BURNED OR DROWNED.

Here the disaster occurred. Fire seems to have started at night in a storeroom between the decks where the cabins and saloons were located. Of the fifty passengers aboard only twenty were rescued. The rest were either drowned or burned to ashes.

Among the victims besides General Rengiffo, were Senor Gomez, a prominent rich man from Boyaca; Captain Plata, who was coming down to join the Panama garrison, and Captain Noguera, commander of the Monteria. All behaved bravely up to the last moment. There were about 250 tons of cargo aboard the Monteria, consisting of minerals from Antoquia, coffee, hides and $300,000 in treasure. The ship was fully insured, but will be a total loss.

night he said: "It was magnificent."

AT THE CITY HALL.

Governor Roosevelt, accompanied by his Adjutant, Avery D. Andrews, his orderly, and Seth Low, were among the first to arrive at the City Hall for the presentation ceremony. They got there shortly after 8 o'clock and were ushered into the Mayor's office. The Mayor had not yet arrived, but he put in an appearance a few minutes later. Then came Admiral Philp, Col. Treadwell, Captain Asa Walker and Charles H. Knox. A few minutes later Rear Admiral Schley came in full dress and was received y General Howard Carroll. In a short time the Mayor's office was filled up with military and naval officers in full dress uniform.

Admiral Schley was the centre of attraction and he was kept busy shaking hands with those who were introduced to him. Captain Coghlan, formerly of the Raleigh, came in and was greeted with "Hoch Der Kaiser." He smilingly responded and shook hands all around. It was 8:40 o'clock when the rattle of cavalry was heard and the people in the Mayor's office looked out to see Troop A, followed by the carriages, with the Admiral and the committee.

THE ADMIRAL ARRIVES.

"Fall in after the Mayor," shouted Secretary Downes, and Mayor Van Wyck and his Secretary hastened to the platform in front of the building where the presentation was to take place. The Mayor had just reached the platform when Admiral Dewey came up the stairs. The Admiral walked over to the Mayor, and with a hearty good morning shook him warmly by the hand.

Captain Lamberton, Lieutenant Brumby, with Chauncey M. Depew, Levi P. Morton, and Richard Croker, followed and then came the other officers of the Olympia and the remaining members of the committee.

By this time the military and naval officers in the Mayor's office and the prominent citizens realized that Dewey had come, and they made a rush for the platform. There was danger of it being overcrowded, and Captain Copeland, of the City Hall squad closed the gates shutting out Admiral Schley, Captain Coghlan, Captain Walker, Captain Dyer, Governor Roosevelt and other prominent persons who arrived a minute late.

Rear Admiral Schley climbed over the gate, and he was followed by the other naval officers, but Governor Roosevelt remained behind. One of his staff rushed up to Captain Copeland of the police squad and whispered, "The Governor feels slighted."

DEWEY AND SCHLEY CHEERED.

The gate was opened again and Colonel Roosevelt took his place within the enclosure. Admiral Dewey evinced a desire to shake hands with all the naval officers and introduce them to the Mayor. He almost hugged Admiral Schley, and he patted Captain Coghlan on the back.

As Dewey greeted Schley the crowd sent up cheer after cheer for Dewey and Schley.

As soon as the greetings were over the Mayor began his speech, presenting the city's loving cup.

DEWEY'S FEELING RESPONSE.

When the Mayor had concluded, Admiral Dewey began to reply by saying:

"It would be quite impossible for me, Mr. Mayor, to express in words ——"

At this point he was interrupted with cheers, and he began again:

"It would be quite impossible to give expression in words how deeply I am moved by this—all these honors, one after the other—that beautiful cup, the freedom of the city and the great, magnificent reception. I cannot say what I want to, but speaking for myself and the gallant squadron I had the honor to command at Manila, I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

GIVES HIS CAPTAINS CREDIT.

After the formal ceremonies, Admiral Dewey went about shaking hands with his friends.

"Come here, all you Captains," he said addressing the naval Captains present. Then he introduced each to the audience.

"Captain Lamberton of the Olympia," he cried, "Captain Wilder of the Boston, Captain Coghlan of the Raleigh, Captain Dyer of the Baltimore, Captain Wood of the Petrel, Captain Walker of the Concord."

When the Captains had all assembled he waved his hands toward them and said: "These are the men who did it. These are the men who should be thanked. Without them I could do nothing."

A SPLENDID CUP.

The loving cup presented to the Admiral is Roman in form and is made of 18 karat gold. The handles are formed of three dolphins, wrought in green gold. Around the neck are forty-five stars, emblematic of the Union. The body of the cup is divided by the handle into three panels, which are employed for the principal decorations. On the front panel is a portrait in relief of Admiral Dewey, surrounded with a wreath of oak leaves, the whole resting on an eagle with outstretched wings. Underneath this panel upon the band around the foot are the letters "G. D. U. S. N."

The second panel has chased in half relief a picture of the Olympia, and beneath is a shield with four stars betokening the recipient's grade. On the third panel is an escutcheon upon which is engraved the inscription, with the names of the Mayor and the members of the Municipal Assembly, and the names of the members of the committee of plan and scope. The coat of arms of the city of New York appears below the inscription. About the feet are a series of anchors, a rope tied in three knots, dolphins, sea weed and other nautical devices.

The cup stands thirteen inches high, has a capacity of four and one half quarts and cost $5,000.

DEWEY LEAVES CITY HALL.

Major General Miles arrived just as the party left the platform for the carriages. Rear Admiral Sampson was not on the stand at the City Hall. He did not arrive in time. The start from the City Hall was made promptly on time. Just after the ceremonies of the presentation of the cup were over, a carriage with a coachman in livery and accompanied by an Olympia sailor, drove up to the foot of the steps leading to the platform. A moment later the Admiral, accompanied by Mayor Van Wyck, stepped into the carriage.

A dozen policemen on foot ran ahead of the carriage across the plaza toward Broadway. There a squad of mounted police was in waiting. The carriage had just started when the school children who were to sing for Admiral Dewey put in an appearance. There was much disappointment that the children had not arrived earlier. It took only a minute to clear Broadway to Warren street, to which street the party passed to the foot of Warren street, where the Admiral and his party took the steamer Sandy Hook for Clearmount. The Admiral's carriage was followed by a company of Squadron A, and on each side there was an escort of mounted men. Immediately following the Admiral and the Mayor was Rear Admiral Schley, and after him came eight carriages, containing military officers and citizens, as well as a number of members of the city government.

TRIP UP THE HUDSON.

The trip to the city dock was uneventful except that the large crowd was constantly cheering the occupants of the carriages. Admiral Dewey acknowledged the applause by raising his hat.

The trip up the Hudson on board the Sandy Hook was without a hitch. The boat left the foot of Warren street at 9:55 o'clock and arrived at the foot of Nineteenth street at 10:30 o'clock. Admiral Dewey was in fine spirits, though he complained of a slight cold and said he would wear his shoulder cape during the parade.

Major-General Miles was one of the first to greet him on the boat. To General Like New York stops work for two days

"Miles, it's regular soldier weather, isn't it?"

"Not exactly," replied General Miles. "I'd call it Dewey weather."

THE ADMIRAL'S BREAKFAST.

The Admiral, Mayor Van Wyck and Senator-elect Depew partook of breakfast together in the main salon of the Sandy Hook. The Admiral was quite abstemious, drinking only a little bouillion and declining a cigar.

Whitelaw Reid was cordially received by the Admiral, as was also Sir Thomas Lipton. Rear-Admiral Schley, who was on board with Rear-Admiral Philip, was also warmly greeted by the Admiral, and they swapped several stories.

Speaking of the honors which had been showered upon him, Admiral Dewey said: "It's a grand thing when a great city like New York stops work for two days to do honor to one man."

The voyage up the river was one continuous ovation, every style of craft with a whistle or noise-making power availing itself of the opportunity to salute the Admiral. The parade started from Grant's tomb at 11:15 A. M.

THE GRAND PARADE.

At the given signal the platoon of police advanced, clearing away the crowds that overflowed into the street. Some little distance behind, on a bay horse, rode Major General Charles F. Roe, N. G. N. Y., followed by his staff, then came Sousa's band playing a spirited air, and behind it came a batallion of sailors from the Olympia.

Then followed the carriage containing Admiral Dewey, by whose side was seated the Mayor of the city. In response to the cheers of thousands of thousands of spectators, the Admiral bowed right and left and appeared greatly pleased at the warmth of his reception.

DIGNITARIES IN CARRIAGES.

Following were three carriages containing Admiral Dewey's Captains, then two carriages abreast containing the Admiral's personal staff. Rear Admiral Howison and President Guggenheimer of the Municipal Council followed in a carriage, and after them came Rear Admiral Howison's officers. Then came the carriage containing Rear Admiral Sampson and President Woods of the Board of Aldermen, followed by eight carriages containing commanding officers of Admiral Sampson's fleet and the Admiral's staff officers.

Rear Admiral John Philip, commandant of the navy yard, St. Clair McKelway and Lieutenant Commander J. D. J. Kelley occupied the next carriage. Following came two carriages abreast containing the junior officers of the Olympia, and after them in the same order carriages containing the junior officers of the North Atlantic squadron.

Carriages two abreast followed containing the visiting Governors, the committee and guests. First of the Governors came Tunnell, of Delaware, then Stone, of Pennsylvania, Voorhees of New Jersey, McSweeney, South Carolina; Russell, North Carolina; Dyer, Rhode Island; McMillin, Tennessee; Bushnell, Ohio; Geers, Oregon; Atkinson, West Virginia; Richards, Wyoming, and Wells, Utah.

Major Generals Miles and Merritt and aids followed in carriages abreast, and then came a carriage containing Rear Admirals Joseph N. Miller and Winfield Scott Schley.

A long row of carriages followed, containing members of the Municipal Assembly, distinguished guests and visiting dignitaries.

THE NAVAL BRIGADE.

The naval brigade of the North Atlantic fleet, commanded by Captain Charles Thomas, followed. It was in seven battalions, and made an imposing appearance. It was composed of the sailors and marines of the New York, Indiana, Texas, Massachusetts, Brooklyn and Lancaster.

A brigade of the regular army came next, with West Point cadets at the head, and after them a battalion of engineers, two battalions of the Fifth Artillery, a battalion of the Seventh Artillery, a battery of the Fifth and a battery of the Seventh.

Following came the militia of the various States, with that of New York in the van, commanded by Governor Roosevelt, with Squadron A as escort. After them came the naval militia under command of Captain Miller, with two battalions and a separate division, and behind them the Old Guard of the city of New York. Then came the militia of Pennsylvania with five regiments; the militia of New Jersey came next with two regiments, two naval reserves battalions, a battery and a troop.

THE CITIZEN SOLDIERS.

The citizen soldiers of Georgia, with two regiments and detachments from several regiments.

Connecticutt's militia, with the First Company of the Governor's Foot Guards, two regiments, a machine gun battery, a naval battalion, and several detached companies.

The Fourth and Fifth Regiments of Maryland.

South Carolina had one regiment of Volunteers, two battalions, and the Sumter Guards, the Timmonsville Guards the Smythe Rifles and a number of Volunteers and a number of detached companies.

New Hampshire had a battalion of six companies.

Three companies representing North Carolina.

Ohio had two regiments, five companies and a Gatling gun battery.

Indiana was represented by the Indianapolis Light Artillery, and the Famous Rifles. The Wabthall Guards represented Mississippi, and the Pine Tree State followed with a signal corps.

Florida had five companies and from the Lone Star State came the famous Corsicana Rifles.

The District of Columbia had a battalion, several detached companies and an ambulance corps.

THE OLD VETERANS.

Following these, under the command of Major General O. O. Howard, with an escort from the various veteran societies, came the unarmed part of the parade.

This was composed of eleven commands representing as many different associations. Then came the Sons of Veterans, followed by Union Ex-Prisoners of War Association, veterans of the civil war not connected with any of the organizations and veterans of the Spanish-American war with Colonel John Jacob Astor, his staff and the Astor Battery.

Then followed camps of the volunteers of the Spanish-American war, the parade terminating with a heterogeneous following of veterans, military and quasi-military associations.

When the Admiral reached the parade starting point it was all the police could do to keep the crowd from overrunning his carriage. Bands all about started up, "Hail to the Chief" until a hundred bands were playing it, but the air could be heard only once in a while for the tremendous cheering.

Governor Roosevelt followed the Admiral's carriage to the starting point and took up a position near by. The Admiral's carriage, drawn by four horses, was driven to the head of the line. As the parade got in motion the crowds applauded with all their might the 250 men from the Olympia.

"Those are the boys who did the trick," shouted a greybearded man, and this sentiment met with the full agreement of the throng who took up the shout. The cheers of the Olympia's sailors were still resounding down the closely packed lines of spectators when a deeper and mightier shout arose and was taken up and prolonged in one thunderous wave of sound as Admiral Dewey in his carriage, in which was Mayor Van Wyck, followed his "Men Behind the guns," bowing and smiling with bared head to the shouting multitude.

It was a memorable progress of the victor of Manila from the tomb of the great General of the civil war to the triumphal arch erected in his own honor.

"HOCH DER KAISER."

The Captains of the ships in the fight at Manila were cheered heartily as they passed, Captain Coghlan receiving perhaps a slightly larger share than the others, frequent shouts of "Hoch der Kaiser" greeting his appearance, while his brother officers joined in the laugh the shout always provoked.

Admiral Sampson was cordially received by the crowd, and was repeatedly cheered. Richard Croker and Senator Depew in a carriage together were applauded all along the line.

OVATION FOR SCHLEY.

Quite a demonstration in honor of Rear Admiral Schley was made at the starting point, and the cheers for him almost equaled those given to Dewey. He was kept busy lifting his hat and bowing an acknowledgment of the ovation he received.

Rear Admiral Philip was another favorite. His admonition to his men at the battle of Santiago, "Don't cheer, boys; they are dying," uttered when the Spanish fleet was wrecked and sinking, was shouted at the bowing Admiral time and again.

AT THE REVIEWING STAND.

Admiral Dewey arrived at the reviewing stand at Madison Square at 1:45 o'clock. The enthusiasm and cheers that greeted his appearance were tremendous. Several times the crowd nearly broke through the police lines in their wild endeavor to get near the Admiral. The police had expected the rush and succeeded in blocking it.

DEWEY AND THE CHILDREN.

On Seventy-second street a number of school children on a stand built especially for them began to sing as the head of the parade approached. They first struck up in childish treble, "Unfurl the Starry Banner." When the sailors of the Olympia were seen with Admiral Dewey, the children arose and sang, "Hail, the Conquering Hero Comes."

The song was delivered with a good deal of vim, the children beating time with their flags. As Admiral Dewey saw and heard the children, he rose from his seat and bowed his head. The children stopped singing. One little girl tried to throw him a rose, but it fell short. A policeman picked it up and handed it to the Admiral, who kept waving his hat at the children. The carriage stopped for a short time, and Admiral Dewey threw a kiss to the children, who began cheering and then throwing kisses. The carriage containing Dewey moved on, and the enthusiasm, which had been at fever heat, subsided a little.

SCHLEY GETS AN OVATION.

The other Admirals and officers were cheered by the children. Admiral Sampson was cheered by the crowd. The children were singing the "Star Spangled Banner" when the carriage containing Admiral Schley came up. The crowd became frantic. Schley was obliged to stand in his carriage. He, like Dewey, waved his chapeau at the children and the crowd went wild over him. The carriage of Schley stopped for a few minutes and during that time a perfect storm of applause greeted him.

WINNERS AT THE RACES YESTERDAY.

Two of five favorites landed winners easily while the other three races were won by outsiders. In the fifth race Oraibee (12-1) had but little trouble in annexing the first place.

FIRE LICKS UP WHOLE TRAINS.

Million Dollar Blaze in Big Four Freight Yards.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 30.—A fire started at 1:10 a. m. today in the freight department of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis (Big Four) railroad and destroyed property variously estimated at from $400,000 to $1,000,000. Closely adjacent were the big manufactories, the Central passenger station, the large office building of the Big Four, and the Grand Hotel. The guests of the hotel were awakened as a precaution, but the fire did not reach across Third street. The entire fire department was called out.

Whole trains of loaded and empty cars were destroyed. The main track was so warped that access to the passenger station is temporarily cut off. The loss is almost entirely restricted to railroad property and freight. The former can be approximately estimated, but the freight loss cannot be computed for some time. All the records of the freight office were burned.

DR. HAMLIN IS APPOINTED.

Named as Physician at the Berkeley Home.

There was a meeting last night of the directors of the Deaf, Dumb and Blind Home at Berkeley. It was the first regular gathering of the kind which has taken place since the three new directors, Geo. W. Reed, W. S. Wells and John Grindley, were appointed members of the board by Governor Gage.

There had, however, been a special meeting held, at which the board organized and George W. Reed was elected president of the organization.

Besides the directors above referred to, there were also in attendance the holdover members of the board, Messrs. Brewston Hayne and Henry Pierce.

A resolution was introduced by Director Wells declaring a vacancy in the position of attending physician at the Institution held by Dr. B. P. Wall, and appointing Dr. O. D. Hamlin to the position.

Director Hayne offered as a substitute the name of Dr. Selfridge for that of Dr. Hamlin.

Wells' motion was adopted by the votes of Directors Reed, Grindley and Wells.

The resolution goes into effect tomorrow.

Dr. Wall secured his position under the preceding administration.

The position of physician at the institution carries with it a liberal salary.

REV. FRENCH IS GIVEN A VACATION

Oakland people will observe with interest the action of the Board of Missions of the United Presbyterian Church at Pittsburg, Pa., concerning the resignation of Rev. J. M. The generosity of the Board has anticipated the wishes of Mr. French's congregation.

DEATH ENDS BITTER CONTEST

Aged John Kryster Dies at His Home.

Death has intervened to put a stop to the proceedings instituted by Charles J. Kryster to have a guardian appointed for his aged father, John Kryster.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the father passed away at the family residence, 1203 Eighth street, at the age of 78 years. He leaves a widow, Elizabeth Kryster, a daughter, Mrs. John Williams, and a son, Charles J. Kryster, and Charles J. Kryster.

Deceased was a pioneer mining man in this State.

For the last twenty years he has resided in this city. About two years ago he was stricken with apoplexy. Since then the son, Charles Kryster made application to have a guardian appointed for his father.

Mrs. Kryster was making a hard legal fight to prevent this action. She claimed her husband was perfectly competent. The estate is worth about $87,000.

SEARCH WARRANT FOUND THE RINGS.

Yesterday afternoon a colored man named John Neville, who resides at 819 Chester street, managed to regain possession of a pair of gold rings valued at $20 which had gotten out of his possession and which had found their way into the office of Wells, Fargo and Company's Express Company in this city. The rings were recovered on a search warrant. They were restored to Neville by Judge Stetson, who was acting on the police bench for Judge Smith who was temporarily taking the place of Judge Greene in the Superior Court. Neville's story, in effect, was that he was a porter in the Pullman Palace Car Company's employ, and that at Carson, Nevada, he had shared his quarters with another colored man who had ungratefully robbed him of a purse containing $55 and the rings in question. The sinning colored man, soon after the theft, sped to Chicago. In some manner, unknown, Neville ascertained that his friend had sent the rings back to this city by means of the Wells-Fargo Express Company, and secured the warrant referred to with the results mentioned.

MRS. COYLE WILL TELL OF HER TRIP.

Mrs. Coyle, the wife of the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, has kindly consented to give a little talk about her recent travels in Europe, in the parlors of the church next Tuesday evening. It was at first proposed that this rather unusual treat should be given in the afternoon and limited to the ladies of the church and congregation and their friends from other circles. A more generous spirit prevailed, and the talk was set for an evening in order that its privileges might be extended to the gentlemen. The moderate admission fee of twenty-five cents will be charged at the door, the proceeds to be for the benefit of the Ladies' Society of the church. Mrs. Coyle vetoed the issuance of tickets, lest they might set the expectations of her auditors too high. But those who know how entertaining and gifted a talker she is in the smaller circles which she adorns, have no such scruples.

SUGGESTIONS COME FROM ST. LOUIS.

4111 Louisiana Avenue, St. Louis, September 25th.

Editor Tribune: I have just been reading in your paper dated September 11th a short clipping from the St Call anent suggestions to the rich men of Oakland. The writer evidently was not aware that the late Dr. Merritt left money for a noble hospital for the city of Oakland. I think most of the people of the city have forgotten the fact also; anyway, the fact is seldom heard of. A little information to the press would be advisable; also salutary.

Town Talk.

This week's issue of Town Talk is adorned on its title page with a fine portrait of Herr Ferdinand Stark. The Saunterer tells about a rumored poisoning in high life, the Goad-Martin wedding, the latest club stories and society chat. There is a clever story of the kind for which Town Talk is famous, and several sketches, bits of verse and vivacious jokelets. "Town Talk" is read by everybody who is anybody, and is the recognized chronicle of the doings of society and clubdom.

ALAMEDA

CLEAVES IS FOUND GUILTY.

Boy Falls Down Stairs and Swallows His Tongue.

Alameda Office of THE TRIBUNE, 1503 Park Street.

ALAMEDA, Sept. 30.—Fred Cleaves, who was charged with having struck his aged father-in-law, Rev. George Morris, was tried before City Recorder St. Sure and a jury and found guilty. Cleaves will appear for sentence next Wednesday morning, when a motion for a new trial will be made by his attorney.

Rev. Mr. Morris, who is almost totally blind, told on the stand the story of how Cleaves had attacked him in his own house at the West End and struck him in a most cowardly manner and how he left the house laughing over what he seemed to consider a huge joke for having beaten a defenseless old man. In answer to a question from Cleaves' attorney Mr. Morris said that he did not exactly love his son-in-law, neither did he harbor any ill-will against him.

"I found from investigation," said the witness, "that Mr. Cleaves had deceived my daughter in various ways. He had failed to support her and her children, and under such circumstances I cannot say that I love him."

Rev. Mr. Morris further testified that Cleaves told him last October that he had a position in the quartermaster's department in the United States army that paid him $1,600 a year, with a "chance to make as much more." Cleaves' evidence was somewhat contradictory, and while he denied point blank having struck his father-in-law, the jury evidently did not believe his story, for after a few moments' deliberation the jury found the former leader of the Boys' Brigade guilty as charged.

Mrs. Morris corroborated her husband's story and Miss Cleaves appeared as a witness for her brother. Deputy District Attorney Melvin addressed the jury. Cleaves' attorney submitted the case without argument.

Swallowed His Tongue.

A most unusual accident happened Edgar Pritchard, the 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Pritchard of 1218 Oak street, yesterday afternoon. The child fell down a long flight of stairs and was uninjured except that in his fall he bit the end of his tongue squarely off, and, to make matters worse, swallowed the piece.

Illustrated Lecture.

The illustrated lecture on "Alaska" given in Armory Hall last night by Mrs. Mary Dickson for the benefit of the Haight School decorating fund was an interesting one and was well attended. Many of the views presented were excellent and were shown for the first time. The affair netted a neat sum which will be expended in securing pictures and works of art for ornamenting the class rooms of the Haight School.

The Institute.

The local institute for teachers will be held during the week, beginning October 9th, and not during next week as incorrectly announced. The institute will probably convene in the Unitarian Church. Sessions will be held Thursday the 12th and Friday the 13th, of October. All schools of the department will be closed during institute week.

Laborer's Fall.

Peralta Bartholomew, who was employed as a laborer at the Perata vegetable garden, at the foot of Paru street, fell from a hay loft yesterday, fracturing his skull and breaking his right arm in two places. He was treated at the Alameda Sanitarium, and up to this evening had not regained consciousness. The physicians do not hold out any hope for his recovery. Bartholomew was engaged with other laborers in lifting bales of hay by a pulley into the loft. Losing hold of the rope, he fell to the ground, a distance of sixteen feet. Dr. A. A. Stafford was summoned and had the man removed to the Sanitarium in the city ambulance.

Cricket Game.

The Alamedas will play their last pennant match of the season tomorrow at the Webster street grounds in Alameda, where they are scheduled to meet the Californias, who have been in the lead since the first series was played last May. The match will be watched with great interest, for if last year's champions should fail to win out their chance for the pennant will have vanished and the trophy will become the property of the new club. A draw would bring about the same result. The Alamedas will put into the field the same eleven that defeated the Pacifics last Sunday, thereby destroying all aspirations of the scarlet and blacks for second place.

If the Alamedas win tomorrow their season's record will be seven points out of a possible twelve. Californias' will be seven out of eleven, with a game still to play against the Pacifics on the following Sunday. If the new club should lose this game also, the Alamedas and Californias will tie and a deciding game will have to be played.

The Alamedas' eleven tomorrow is strong in every department of the game. Six of the team bowl effectively, which affords a variety that makes it difficult for an opposing batsman to get thoroughly set. There is not a poor fielder in the whole side, while all their batsmen are run getters, especially when the opposing bowlers are the least bit slack. The Californias are trying two or three new men, but the team suffers from lack of practice, for which their opponents have ample opportunity. The Alamedas are confident of winning, and on paper they seem by far the more likely winners, but the Californias have won four out of the five games already played and are not without confidence. Following are the players who represent the Alamedas: J. J. Morey, J. H. Saunders, V. Seebeck, F. Croll, H. Bird, H. Ward Jr., J. J. R. Peel, W. G. Fortmann, George Hellmann, F. Stahl and P. E. McLean, with G. J. Baugh as twelfth man. The California eleven will be chosen on the ground from the following list of players: F. M. Gunn, W. Reeves, G. J. Loughman, L. Schroeder, A. Willis, O. J. Thomas, W. A. Fortescue, G. E. Farrell, W. Robinson, C. H. Singleton, A. Dickinson and E. G. Sloman.

Notes and Personals.

Miss Rachel Best of 2325 Clement avenue has returned after several weeks' visit spent with friends in the northern part of the State.

James Hanley took a party of Alamedans on a cruise about the bay today on his schooner. The warships at anchor and various points of interest were visited.

Invitations are out for the marriage of Miss Elsie Harnden, daughter of Mrs. F. A. Harnden of 1137 Broadway, and Edward L. Holmes of 912 Paru street. The ceremony will take place on Tuesday evening, October 10th, at the Unitarian Church.

Leland Ramsdell of this city was one of a committee of four boys representing the "Junior Order of Native Sons of the Golden West" who called on Admiral Dewey yesterday for the purpose of presenting him with a silk flag, the gift of their society.

The twenty-seventh anniversary of the founding the Christ Episcopal Church was celebrated Thursday night. Bishop Nichols preached the sermon. The choir of the Good Samaritan Cathedral Mission sang with the regular choir of the church.

The Alameda Boating Club will hold its annual championship regatta and ladies' day next Sunday at its boathouse on the estuary.

SATURDAY.....SEPTEMBER 30, 1899.

It will be hard from now on to convince Dewey that Friday is an unlucky day. The recollections of yesterday will effectually dispose of that point in his mind.

Rain is evidently not very far away. The meterological conditions in every direction indicate that we will have a shower at least within the next two or three days.

The canvass for the Public Library fund has started out in a way that betokens success. Among the 75,000 residents of Oakland it won't be a very hard proposition to raise $30,000—a little less than half a dollar apiece.

Chicago is wrestling with a pie trust. The easiest way out of the difficulty would be to stop eating pie, but the inhabitants of the Lake City would as soon figure on death itself as on that alternative.

The coming Congress will have a Republican majority of fifteen in the House and at least fourteen in the Senate. McKinley will now be able to top off his administration in a manner that will put the finishing touches to his prospects for re-election.

Li Hung Chang advises the United States to buy off Aguinaldo. Now that Uncle Sam has invaded the Orient, the old diplomat thinks that we should act on the adage, "When in Rome do as the Romans do."

Oregon is going in for an enforcement of the curfew ordinance in every city that will take the matter up. It is not likely to do much good there, though, for if the residents have not sense enough to get in out of the wet at every opportunity, it is not much use reminding them that it is time to head for home at any particular hour in the evening.

When such prominent statesmen as Senator Proctor and Governor Roosevelt are wrangling as to who is entitled to the credit for Dewey's having been sent to the Philippines, the political eminence he occupies just now must be regarded as a very exalted one, for otherwise they would not be struggling so hard for the privilege of basking in his reflected glory.

Berkeley's saloons will all permanently close their doors at midnight, for at that hour the new anti-liquor law goes into effect. From now on, therefore, you will notice that the denizens of the College town as they return homewards from San Francisco or Oakland will no longer have their coats buttoned up tight. A bottle has an awkward knack of standing out in bold relief if any pressure is placed upon the pocket in which it is carried.

Golden Gate Baptists are going to have a public burning tomorrow of the mortgage that has been hanging over their church so long and has now been taken up. They had better be mighty careful, though, when the fire is around, or else they may share the fate of the congregation in Texas, where the mortgage-incinerating ceremony resulted in the church taking fire and burning down, thus necessitating a bigger mortgage than ever so as to get a new structure.

The attempt of the Democratic press to force Dewey into the Presidential fight on the shallow pretext that he has been wilfully snubbed by the Administration, because McKinley did not send out a personal representative to meet him, is simply ridiculous. It is not a case of William McKinley and George Dewey, but of the President of the United States and the Admiral of the fleet. It is the Admiral's duty to report to the President, and not vice versa.

The enormous increase in Pacific Coast business is shown by the fact that despite its vast resources, the Southern Pacific is unable to keep pace with the demands upon its traffic department. In the West Oakland yards everything is rushing, and the announcement that five new large engines have been ordered shows that the company is satisfied that the rush is going to be more or less permanent. C. P. Huntington knew what he was about when, the other day, he drew $13,000,000 out of the bank and bought up the Crocker interests in the road. The Southern Pacific system is one of the biggest money makers in the country.

COLUMBIA AND SHAMROCK.

The closing in of the preparations for the international yacht race between the Shamrock and the Columbia is centering the attention upon what promises to be the keenest struggle for the aquatic championship that has been held since the day, forty-eight years ago, the Yankee schooner crossed the Atlantic and took the prize away from the Britishers. England has made nine vain attempts since then to regain the lost honors, and although upon every occasion when she has brought over a new contestant for the trophy the claim has been made that at last a boat had been secured that would turn the trick, the contest has invariably resulted in an easy victory for the American craft.

It may, therefore, seem something like revamping old arguments to say that this time England is represented by a boat well capable of giving us a hard tussle for the prize, but to those who have been watching the developments it is apparent that such is really the case. Heretofore the race has been practically decided upon the merits of the different styles of boat building followed by the American and English workmen, and as long as this difference was maintained and our style really was the superior, it was of course impossible for the English to turn out a boat on their lines that could wrest the honors away from us. Now, however, this has all been changed. The Shamrock is practically constructed on the same plans as our own yachts, and though this concession admits the superior ingenuity of our craftsmen, at the same time it makes the situation more critical for us, for we are to a great extent to compete with something of our own creation and built on our own models.

The race will, therefore, hinge to a great degree upon the nautical skill of those in charge of the two ships, and in this regard we need have no fears, even though Sir Thomas Lipton has canvassed the entire yachting field of Great Britain to get the best material possible for his crew. The fact that the race is to be sailed in our own waters is an undeniable advantage to us, though this can be considered offset by the additional sailing gear of the Shamrock, for she carries more canvas than our boat, every possible opportunity in that regard being not only utilized but improved upon.

It is well that such thorough preparations are being made for the contest as to make it certain that there will be no possibility for the crowding that has prevailed upon former occasions, and which has led to such vigorous protests from our British visitors. If we are to win we want to win a clean-cut victory, and not one to which any exception can be taken because of any happenings that will afterwards furnish excuses for our adversary, and on the other hand, if we are to lose we want it to be with the knowledge that nothing for which we can rightly be held to blame was the cause of our defeat. The feeling in this respect, too, should be all the more pronounced because of the sportsmanlike tactics of Sir Thomas Lipton, the owner of the challenger. From the first he has been genial, generous and broad-minded on every proposition that has been advanced in connection with the contest. He is going to race the Shamrock like a gentleman, and should he be beaten, accept defeat without a murmur. Should victory perch upon his banner, though, we, too, will have no complaints, for the Columbia is a tried and tested improvement on the Defender, and before the first starting gun is fired we are willing to pin our faith to her as the stanchest and truest racing craft that ever flew the American flag.

The anti-expansionists who were prophesying that every soldier who returned from the Philippines would be a missionary against the policy of the Administration there are finding themselves on the short end of the argument, for as a matter of fact, the condition of affairs is exactly the reverse. There is not a man who wears or has doffed our uniform who does not believe in keeping the American flag flying over the land that has been wet by the blood of his comrades. To abandon the Philippine campaign now would make us a laughing-stock in the eyes of the entire world, in addition to which, it is morally certain that England, France, Germany or perhaps even Spain would jump our claim as soon as we vacated it.

The War Department officials report that the call for recruits has resulted in a response from over 11,000 men, and that there is no doubt that the other 4,000 required will be obtained by the middle of October. This evidence of patriotism is all the more notable when it is remembered that the men have been obtained during a period when there is lots of work and wages are high.

The improvement of Lake Merritt is progressing so satisfactorily now that we can figure pretty closely when the entire work will be completed. That makes one enterprise that we have not permitted to exist simply on paper, and judging by the spirit evidenced nowadays, we will succeed in going down the entire line, and make Oakland the sort of city she deserves to be.

RAILROAD MEN AND WRECKS

There is much worthy of general consideration in the manifesto that is being circulated among the railroad engineers of Oakland and other cities included in this division of the Brotherhood, relative to the accidents on the Southern Pacific system and the tendency on the part of certain newspapers to cast blame where it does not belong. The engineers speak only for themselves and their interests in the matter, and the point they make is that it is grossly unfair to them to have the impression go abroad that the trains of the Southern Pacific lines are manned "by incompetents and drunken employes who recklessly and brutally disregard the safety of lives and property."

Although THE TRIBUNE does not desire to appear in defense of the railroad company, every fair-minded person must admit that this "catastrophe" business is being overdone by the newspapers. It is almost impossible to operate a big railroad system without a certain percentage of accidents, and to apply the lash every time one occurs, regardless of whether or not there was any palpable negligence on the part of the railroad or its employes, is manifestly unfair. It is ridiculous to suppose that the railroad people would not avoid the disasters if they could, and it is equally absurd to imagine that economy would be practiced under conditions that would make mishaps probable, for a big system like the Southern Pacific is run on an absolutely business basis, and no one knows better the fallacy of a "penny-wise, pound-foolish" policy than practical railroad men. A slight accident means a loss reaching into the thousands of dollars, to say nothing of damages caused by a temporary suspension of business on that particular part of the road, while a big smashup, especially of passenger trains, is liable to figure well on toward the million notch before all the bills are met.

Apart from the certainty, therefore, that the railroad company is just as anxious to avoid wrecks as anyone else can possibly be, the matter of the caliber of its workmen enters into the consideration, and that is where the engineers make their protest. The Southern Pacific employes are, in the main, an intelligent, honest, hard-working body of men. Many of them reside in Oakland, so we have unusual opportunities to sit in judgment on the issue, and no one who knows them will entertain for one moment the idea that they are the careless, negligent, work-shirking lot that the papers in question make them out to be, by implication, in their articles upon the accidents.

Queen Victoria is reported to be cutting down her expenses in a remarkable manner, one economical reform being to charge her various descendants $2.50 for luncheon and $5 for dinner per head whenever they call around at Buckingham Palace to get a square meal. It must be a poor satisfaction to her, though, to hoard up her money when she thinks of the spendthrift crowd that will lay hands on it when she is gone.

Spain has more money in her treasury now than she had had for fifty years past. She ought to regard Uncle Sam as a benefactor instead of a whilom enemy, for by cutting off her foreign dependencies we have relieved her of the enormous expenses of her interminable wars in Cuba and the Philippines, and she can now devote her resources to her home interests.

AUTUMN.

Oh, the royal days of September!
The roll of the crackling wood;
The caw of the black crows calling,
The swirl of the yellow leaves falling,
With their dashes of red,
How they pelt my bare head
As they fly like a wild bird's brood.
Here the barefooted boy with his basket,
White-headed and brown-cheeked with tan,
Comes scurrying the woods with his sister,
A-nutting, the dear little man!

Oh, again to go roaming the forest
In the heavenly daylight of joy,
Thro' the regal dream-days of September!
A pleasure thro' life to remember—
A pleasure which hath no alloy.
Oh, to dwell in life's Indian summer,
For aye to go nutting with sister,
And be a brown, barefooted boy!

DO YOU ATTEND ANY CHURCH.

A Canvass of the Entire County Will Now Be Made.

The Alameda County Sunday School Association officers have plenty of confidence in the Sunday school workers of this county, judging from the amount of work they are planning for them to do in the next twenty days.

They purpose no less a thing than a canvass of the entire county in one day, and have gone so far as to set October 20th as the date on which it is to be done.

They figure that it will take 1,700 persons, going two by two, to reach the 140,000 people of the county in one day. To secure these they are now calling on the Sunday schools to furnish volunteers. The number to be provided from each depends upon the size of the schools. Some of the larger ones will need to provide as many as forty, and some of the small missions will be asked for but two.

There are 135 schools in the county with a membership of about 15,000. The county has a strong association of which all these schools are members. The county is also divided into eleven districts, each of which has an organization with offices that control the schools within its bounds. The presidents of these district associations are by virtue of their office vice-presidents of the county association, and thereby members of the County Executive Committee that is planning this work.

The plan of action is to have the district officers divide their territory into sub-districts, appointing one person over each. These will divide their sub-districts into districts containing forty houses each in the cities and twenty-five in the country. For each of these, two canvassers will be selected and sent out on October 20th.

They will be provided with a book of cards to be filled out, one for each house and one for every roomer. The cards contain the following questions: Name of family and residence; number of children under 18; number attending Sunday school; what Sunday school; number of church members; what church; if not members what church preferred?

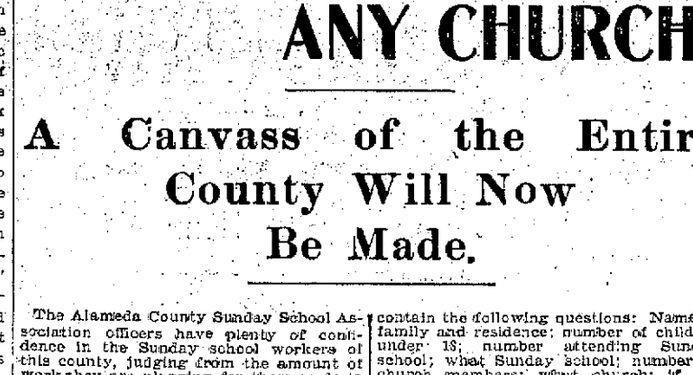

At each house a card of invitation will be left inviting the people to attend the church and Sunday school of their choice.

When the canvass is completed the cards are turned in to the district chairmen, who segregate them according to the preference shown for church and Sunday school. These cards are then given to the pastors and superintendents of the churches, and they will then make another canvass among those that prefer their denomination, seeking to induce the children to attend their Sunday school.

This canvass is made to reach the 10,000 children of Protestant families that do not now attend anywhere. There are an equal number of Catholic children, and they will be included in the first canvass and the cards turned over to the Catholics to follow up.

The county officers who have this work in charge are: O. A. Lane, president; Miss Helen R. Clough, corresponding secretary; J. V. Bacon, statistical secretary; J. W. Webster, treasurer. They have called the general secretary of the Northern California Sunday School Association, Earl S. Bingham, of San Jose, to come and assist them, and he will make his headquarters in Oakland at 1070 Broadway, where the campaigns will be planned.

Meetings will be held at San Leandro tomorrow at 11 A. M., and at Haywards at 7:30 P. M. A meeting will also be held at the First Presbyterian Church next Monday evening at 8 P. M. Earl Bingham will speak at these meetings.

First Congregational church, Rev. Chas. R. Brown pastor. Morning service, 11 o'clock; sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Evening service, 7:30 o'clock, Rev. Geo. B. Hatch of Berkeley will preach.

First Presbyterian church, 11 a. m. Communion and reception of members. At 7:30 p. m. Dr. Coyle will preach on "The Way Up." All invited.

First Methodist Episcopal church. At 11 a. m. Rev. E. S. Chapman will preach. At 7:30 p. m. the pastor, Dr. Dille, will preach. Subject, "Revivals, True and False." Service preparatory to Weber meetings. All welcome.

The Union Methodist revival meetings under the leadership of Evangelist Weber begin at the First Methodist Episcopal church next Wednesday evening, October 4th, and continue for a fortnight thereafter daily at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. A force of 300 workers is being organized, a choir of 125 voices and a corps of ushers 40 in number. These will be designated by appropriate badges. The singing will be under the direction of J. M. A LETTER FROM AN ANCIENT.

Editor Tribune—Kindly ask some member of the Board of Supervisors (any old member) the following conundrums:

First—What was the original color and pattern of the paper on the walls of the Sheriff's office? The Sheriff complains that his taste for the beautiful is being utterly spoiled by looking at the frescoes caused by water leaks from overhead.

Two—Were the carpets in the Sheriff's office put down before or since the Flood? I claim that it was since, as carpets of that kind were not made prior to the aqueous cataclysm—at least I did not see any in those ancient days.

Three—Why should the Sheriff and his deputies be Expansionists? Because when they are all in the office at one time, there is not room enough left in which to sling a dead cat.

Four—If the Sheriff and his deputies should find a dead cat in their office, would they sling it? Yes, because the room is small, stuffy, close, and therefore the atmosphere therein is unpleasant, and they would sling any old dead thing about the room to change the smell of the said atmosphere, on the proposition laid down by Euclid that any change would be for the better.

Five—Will the Supervisors give the relief suggested in the above conundrums? Yes. When? The stars alone can tell.

FALSE REPORTS SENT BY BOERS.

The Alleged Movements of the Burghers Are Probably All a Blind.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The Transvaal crisis news, which monopolizes all the leading columns of the afternoon newspapers, is now well nourished by dispatches from the Cape, from which copious particulars of the movements of the troops on both sides and other war preparations are coming.

A dispatch from Cape Town says:

"The alarmist reports from Pretoria of the movements of burghers must be received with caution. The strict Boer censorship renders it unlikely that important movements could be telegraphed unless the Transvaal has good reason for it. It is here that the highly colored reports are sent either to arouse the enthusiasm of the Afrikanders or to produce alarm in the British camps."

TRUTH HARD TO FIND.

The Cape Town Times says:

"It is impossible to say whether there are real grounds for the Transvaal military activity until the nature of the dispatches of the imperial government, Orange Free State and Transvaal are known. Therefore, it is useless to speculate on the chances of an early recourse to hostilities."

SCHREINER'S INACTION.

Commenting upon the apathy of Premier Schreiner's colleagues, the paper quoted says:

"If the Premier possesses information leading him to believe there is no necessity for the precautions which others believe are urgently demanded, it is Mr. Schreiner's duty to set the public mind at rest."

According to advices from Pretoria, it appears that the authorities there are serving out no more Mausers, but are giving the burghers Martinis instead. This is mainly due to the defective Mauser cartridge, which is constantly bursting in the barrels and destroying the bolt act.

BOER WAR PREPARATIONS.

A telegram from Pretoria, dated yesterday, says the wildest excitement prevails there, and that the war preparations are proceeding apace. Big guns, field telegraphs, burghers, munitions of war and provisions are being hurried off to Volksrust, the projected base of the Boer operations against Natal. Crowds gather at the stations to witness the departure of the military trains. General Joubert goes to Volksrust tomorrow. The Boer War Office is working night and day, and commandeering is actively proceeding. The Raad, in order to secure the support of many Outlanders, has decided that Outlanders who help the Boers will receive the franchise. Immediately after martial law is proclaimed outside postal communication will be stopped. The secret session which the Raad is holding this evening will probably adjourn until Wednesday for the result of the British Cabinet meeting.

WILL ATTACK NATAL.

The Transvaal is collecting artillery along the Natal border, and its reserve artillery has been dispatched to St. Anderson's and Wakkerstroom and also to Rustenburg, which will probably form the base of attack on Bechuanaland in the direction of Mafeking, where a British counter force is assembling and fortifications are being raised.

The occupants of trains from the Transvaal arriving at Ladysmith confirm the movement of the burghers in the direction of the frontier. They also declare that the Boers insulted them when passing stations, and that one Boer assaulted a passenger without provocation. About 1800 Boer artillery, including the reserves, are encamped at Volksrust, where the field cornet has issued 925 rifles and 45,000 cartridges.

BRITISH NOT ASLEEP.

On the British side the forces are steadily moving near the frontier. The British camp at Glencoe is situated on a stony koppje, with strong breastworks erected on top. All the railroad bridges from Colenzo to Newcastle are guarded day and night by a mixed force of police and infantry. Two men are allotted to each small bridge and four to the larger bridges. The batteries of artillery which left Glencoe ostensibly for Dundee have suddenly been ordered to Newcastle, which is in advance of the British base. The farmers of this northernmost part of Natal, which enters the Transvaal like a wedge, are leaving their farms and coming out of the country.

In Rhodesia, which is exposed to a Boer attack, the British colonists are actively preparing for defense. The administrator at Bullawayo has informed the Chamber of Mines that the forces will be doubled and the forts strengthened and machine guns mounted. There are constant patrols in the country district. Water is scarce in Rhodesia, but there is enough if it rains soon.

KILLED FIVE AMERICANS.

Four of Gunboat's Crew Now Prisoners at Calumpit.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—A dispatch to the Herald from Manila says:

An escaped Spanard prisoner who has entered the American lines says General Mascardo, with 800 insurgents, began a retreat out of Porac yesterday as soon as the place was attacked. He moved to Calumpit, a mountain stronghold, to the westward, where 1,500 other insurgents were massed and where also the rebels have powder works.

Four prisoners from the captured American gunboat Uardanetta were in Porac and were taken to Calumpit by the retreating enemy. The five other men of the crew were killed.

Letters regarding the return of the American prisoners now in the Philippine Islands are passing both ways. A flag of truce will probably be sent in at once. It is possible Lieutenant Gilmore and his boat's crew of the Yorktown will not be among those surrendered now.

ARKANSAS ASYLUM BURNED

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 30.—The Deaf Mute Institute, one of the State's largest institutions, was today destroyed by fire, which originated in the main building. The thirty-eight inmates escaped in their night clothes and two were rescued from a fourth story window by firemen. Nothing was saved. The loss to the State is about $150,000, and to private parties $10,000. There was no insurance on he property, the Legislature having refused to make an appropriation for that purpose.

BOERS SCORED BY THE GERMANS

England Urged to Clear Out the "Ignorant Peasants."

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

BERLIN, Sept. 30.—The Cologne Gazette today publishes a communication from what are designated as the most "influential Germans in Johannesburg," calling upon Great Britain to take steps to suppress the troubles that have long existed in the Transvaal, which they add are now spreading to neighboring States. The document declares that if peaceful negotiations fail, Great Britain must draw the sword and cut the Gordian knot.

The signers of the document, insist that "the group of inexperienced Boers which is managing the revenues of which a considerable portion flows into their own pockets, must be cleared out," and that Great Britain is under obligation to restore peace with the Transvaals, which is impossible as long as "these ignorant peasants have the direction of the complicated situation."

While the above probably expressed the view of the German capitalist, it must be remembered that many Germans hold an exactly contrary opinion, and have enlisted in support of the present administration of the Transvaal.

FEARS FOR STEAMERS.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

LONDON, Sept. 30.—The gravest fears are entertained for the British steamers Lalehan, Captain Geary, from Pensacola, August 9th for Grimsby, and Pembridge, Captain Monteman, from Savannah, August 13th, for Hamburg, neither of which has been heard from since sailing. They are overdue over three weeks.

HORRORS OF THE SCOTSMAN WRECK

Little Chance of Rescuing the Passengers Stranded on Change Island.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

QUEBEC, Sept. 30.—Under orders from Captain Schrimshire, all members of the crew of the Scotsman, brought up today by the Grecian, have been held under arrest to be searched. The Grecian, with forty-seven of the passengers and the crew of the Scotsman, arrived today.

The people saved are in the most destitute condition, but they were more fortunate than those on the Montfort, owing to the fact that the Grecian had plenty of provisions for them. A lifeboat was sent ashore and brought off about thirty of the crew. The next boat took the seventeen passengers.

Early in the morning searching parties went out to gather in the stragglers, but they did not meet with great success, as there are perhaps forty or fifty still on the island, all scattered in parties of two or three. When the passengers and crew were brought alongside they were so weak that they were unable to climb the ladder and all had to be hoisted on deck. Many of them as soon as they reached the Grecian's deck fell down, overcome with exhaustion and the relief of finding a place of safety.

TERRIBLE SUFFERING.

Captain Calvert says that never in his life has he heard such terrible tales of suffering or seen such pitiable sights.

He is of the opinion that there will be many deaths on the island unless immediate relief reaches there.

Walter White of Liverpool, a passenger on the Scotsman, is of the opinion that there have been already seven or eight deaths on the island. Some one told Mr. White he had seen two bodies, and the second mate of the Scotsman says he buried one woman in the moss. Dr. White is of the opinion that a good number more will die. There is a very small chance of rescue, as the different persons are scattered over the whole island.

PASSING OF MRS. MOOAR.

Wife of a Well-Known Minister Died at Her Home.

Death entered the household of Rev. Dr. Mooar, 400 Edwards street, last night, and bore away the wife and life partner of the well-known clergyman, Sarah Ann Mooar, in the 70th year of her age.

The deceased was a native of Connecticut, and came to this State thirty-eight years ago, where she has since resided. Her husband was at the time active among the pastors of the Congregational Church. He is still a minister of that faith, although he has not been actively employed in the work because of an honorable retirement which was won by long years in the ministry of arduous and successful effort.

The funeral of Mrs. Mooar will take place next Monday at 2 o'clock.

M'KENZEE MURDER TRIAL.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

SUISUN, Cal., Sept. 30.—The fourth day of the McKenzie trial failed to bring forth any developments. Miss Daisy Pulsifer occupied the stand all morning. The defense disputed the accuracy of her transcript during McKenzie's testimony at the Coroner's inquest. Defense read the same, disclosing the fact that many errors had been made, and claimed she was an inexperienced stenographer. Miss Pulsifer will continue her testimony this afternoon.

OUTCLASSED BY M'GOVERN

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—The fight last night between Freddie Snyder of this city and Terry McGovern, who recently defeated Pedlar Palmer of England, which was scheduled to go six rounds, came to an abrupt end in the second round, when the police interfered. Snyder was outclassed and went to the floor twice in the first and six times in the second round. He was severely punished, McGovern hitting him at will.

MURDERED BY BURGLARS.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

M. Deroulede was the first brought out, accompanied by his counsel, Maitre Falateuf.

AT SALINGER'S TONIGHT.

You Will See the Montana Regiment's Mascot.

This evening at the grand fall opening at Salinger's popular store one of the mascots of the famous Montana regiment will be present in the shape of a black monkey, one of the very few of his kind ever brought to this country. He will be found in the stationery department, presided over by Col. Ike Fiel. His species is rare as well as intelligent. There will be other interesting relics of Manila, including an extra large poisonous lizard, those that are so much dreaded by the natives as well as the American troops. It is generally styled "The Pet of Luzon," but they are not very much sought after as companions. Several picknanniies will also enliven the proceedings this evening, and altogether tonight at Salinger's Grand Fall Opening all of Oakland will be there to grace their presence to a place of business that is becoming more popular every day.

NICHOLL DEMANDS A NEW TRIAL

Says the Jury Did Not Give Him a Fair Deal.

Gives Many Reasons for a Reversal of the Judgment.

Capitalist John Nicholl of East Oakland does not propose to pay Miss Jane Hodge $25,000 on her breach of promise action without making a hard legal battle. Through his attorneys, Major Mhoon and Sam Bell McKee, he has filed notice that he will make a motion to have the court set aside the verdict of the jury and grant a new trial of the action.

Several grounds are named upon which the motion will be based. Among these are: Irregularities in the proceedings by which the defendant was prevented from having a fair trial; misconduct of the jury during the trial; surprise which ordinary prudence could not have guarded against; newly discovered evidence; excessive damages which appear to have been given by the jury under the influence of passion and prejudice; insufficiency of evidence to justify the verdict, and errors of law.

OHIO CAMPAIGN OPENED.

HAMILTON, O., Sept. 30.—The Democratic campaign was opened here today with a great demonstration and speeches by John R. McLean, candidate for Governor, and the candidates for other offices on the Democratic State ticket, and others. The Butler county Democracy arranged for parades during the day and illumination of the city at night, and the State Committee secured leading Democrats to speak with Mr. McLean. Portraits of McLean, Bryan and Dewey were displayed, and the city was elaborately decorated. During the forenoon McLean and other candidates were kept busy with receptions, and in the afternoonmwyp receptions and in a tour of the shops. Arrangements were made for early barbecue dinners so that the parade could start at 1 p. m. and the speaking at 2 p. m.

Weddings | Receptions | Luncheons

The Meddler.

On Wednesday night Miss Louise Simmons and Thomas B. Pheby Jr. were married at the home of Captain John Wright. The wedding was a pretty one, both the families being well known. The Wrights are awfully nice people, and the wedding was as charming as if Louise had been the Captain's own daughter. Indeed, I am sure that the stepfather regards the young girl quite as though she were his own, and the pretty Madison street home will miss her. Tom Pheby is a nice boy, very handsome and said to be bright. He is a graduate of the University of California, a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity and is practicing law with the firm of Bishop & Wheeler, which is a very good firm to be in.

The groom's father is a successful speculator and a wealthy man, and his sister, pretty Elsie Pheby, married A. D. Cross of San Francisco.

Pretty Louise Simmons made a charming bride as she stood in the midst of those who love her. Her gown of heavy white satin was severely plain, but the lace with which it was ornamented was the rarest of Duchesse and rose point. The veil was caught with orange blossoms and the bouquet was of bride's roses. The maid of honor was Miss Nellie McMurtry of Los Angeles, whose gown was of pink tulle, and whose bouquet was of tiger lilies. Miss Laura Crellin and Miss Grace Holt, the bridesmaids, also looked sweet. Mrs. J. T. Wright, the bride's mother, gave the young girl into the keeping of her husband. Mrs. Wright wore a handsome gown of black silk trimmed with good old lace. Rev. Robert Ritchie of St. Paul's performed the ceremony under a canopy of smilax, and Jo Pheby, who recently returned from a long and interesting trip to the Orient and Australia, acted as best man.

The house was prettily decorated with sunflowers and yellow blooms in the hall, with ferns and pink carnations in the drawing room and with ropes of smilax extending from the tall palms at the sides of the room to the central chandelier. In the attic, where supper was spread for eighty guests, huckleberry branches with their frost-touched leaves were effectively arranged.

Only the dearest friends were bidden to the ceremony. The bride stood in the midst of those who loved her best, among them being Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Pheby, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Wright, Joseph Pheby, Miss Grace Holt, Miss Grace Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cross, Mr. and Mrs. Kittridge, Harry Kittredge, Miss Ethel Kittredge, Mrs. Crellin, Miss Laura Crellin, Miss Mona Crellin, Senator Earl, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. De Young, Frank Parcells and Eugene Deck.

Among the guests no gown was so lovely as that worn by Mrs. M. H. De Young, whose toilettes are far-famed for their beauty.

The supper, served by the Hallahans, was daintily delicious, with terrapin and all sorts of good things. The health of the bride and groom was drunk in champagne. Mr. and Mrs. Pheby have gone on a wedding tour to the south. They will not have to buy any furniture for their new home, as they have everything heart could possibly desire among their wedding gifts. I am sure we all wish them very great joy.

Speaking of Mrs. De Young's frock reminds me that Mrs. George Crocker wore a very beautiful black glitter gown at Mrs. Requa's dinner last week. Cut decollete and almost sleeveless, with a mass of beautiful diamonds, the costume was superb, especially in contrast to the exquisite red Jacqueminot roses and trembling maidenhair with which the dinner table was covered.

Mrs. W. W. Foote, Miss Bertha Foote, Miss E. Foote, Mrs. Chauncey Taylor and Ben Taylor sailed yesterday on the Ophir for China and Japan. At Hongkong they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Wildman. Mrs. Wildman is a niece of W. W. Foote. After visiting China and Japan the party will go through India and Egypt, arriving in Paris early in 1900, where they will be met by W. W. Foote.

There are to be several weddings in October. The marriage of Fred Magee and Belle Mhoon is set for Wednesday, the 11th of October, which is very near now. Belle Mhoon should make a pretty bride—she is so spirituelle looking. The maid of honor is to be Amy McKee, of course, and the bridesmaids Miss Florence Dunham, Miss Florence Selby, Miss Helen Boss and Miss Julia Garber. Walter Magee will be best man and the ushers will be Sam McKee Mhoon, Sam Bell McKee, Thomas V. Bakewell, Sheffield Sanborn, Frank B. King and Horace Miller. The wedding is to be in Trinity Episcopal Church, which is so cosy, and which lends itself admirably to decoration. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock. There will be a reception afterward for the relatives and intimates, but as the relatives include the Magees, the Curtises, the Hushes, the Mhoons, the Millers, the McKees, the Herricks, the Requas and several other family connections there will be a very large gathering.

Sadie Sinclair's wedding will be the first October bridal, it being scheduled for the 4th of the month at Mrs. Stephenson's.

One of the swell weddings of the season took place in San Francisco this week, when handsome Genevieve Goad became the wife of Andrew Martin. It is a desirable match in every way. Miss Goad is extremely good-looking and the Martins have loads of money. It was Miss Goad who was engaged to Mr. Williams of South Africa not long ago, the engagement being broken off under sensational circumstances. It is said that Miss Goad wished nothing to remind her of her former preparations, and so she had a completely new trousseau, though the other was entirely completed, it lacking only a few days of the marriage when the expose came. This time she wore no orange blossoms, as she had intended to do the other time. Her veil was fastened with a diamond tiara, the gift of the groom. She carried a bunch of white orchids. She was a stunning bride, of course, for she looks like a Gibson girl. In the old days hearts did not heal so quickly, but Doctor Gold has a magic touch these days.

The only sad thing about the marriage is that the groom has consumption and cannot live away from Palm Springs and other balmy places.

Mrs. James Moffitt, Miss Moffitt and J. K. Moffitt have been staying at Glen Alpine Springs. It is getting a trifle cold at Lake Tahoe now, but the autumn scenery is charming and the mountains in their red dress are lovelier than ever.

Mrs. M. W. Fish of Point Pinos, Monterey, is visiting her old friends in Oakland and San Francisco. Mrs. Fish is one of the most charming women I know. Her loss is a great one to Oakland society.

Mrs. Charles Webb Howard talked before the California Club on Tuesday and a most interesting and charming little speech she made. It was all very modest and unassuming, Mrs. Howard keeping herself in the background all the time, but we all know that she was the only California woman at the great International Council of Women in London, and that her own paper on "Horticulture" was not one of the least important and interesting of those read at that memorable gathering. Mrs. Howard told the ladies of the California Club exactly what they all wanted to hear. She spoke of the American women who addressed the body, of the delightful social functions at which they were entertained, of the magnificent houses and splendid pictures, the titled dames, the rich palaces, the meeting with the Queen and the great parties on the lawns. She told some of the witty and humorous anecdotes of the gathering; in short, she told exactly what one would want to hear and what the newspapers, through some extraordinary oversight, failed to give us. I should judge that the London representative of the American papers, at least of the coast papers, must have been a man entirely unappreciative of women and their doings. The only thing he reported was a struggle to keep Rev. Anna Shaw from preaching. He did not tell how Mrs. Howard spoke on women horticulturists in California, giving them their due, and telling the world of their successful achievements.

Mrs. Howard wore a pretty black and white silk gown and carried a flag of fine California silk, which was lent to her just before her departure and which she carried everywhere, often in her pocket, of course. Mrs. Howard succeeded in sharing her pleasure and the rare treat she had enjoyed with more than a hundred ladies who were unable to take the long journey which she took. After the talk the ladies of the club greeted Mrs. Howard and thanked her, and she was the recipient of a great many congratulations.

On Thursday evening Miss Garlick, the California Red Cross nurse who served in the Philippines, lectured before the Political Equality Club which meets at the home of Miss Whelan in East Oakland. The meeting was well attended, and the talk of "The Woman Who Did" was much enjoyed. Miss Garlick is a demure and quiet young woman, but interesting, and she told many fascinating and pathetic incidents of her residence in the Philippines and of the nursing she did there. She wore her khaki uniform, but she displayed a number of delicate embroidered dresses done by the deft women beyond the seas.

Miss Garlick is a very entertaining speaker. She was with the First California Regiment all through the war, and spent most of her time in the operating room. There was never an operation or an amputation performed on any California boy that Miss Garlick did not nurse the patient, and when they died it almost broke her heart. At first the officers treated her with cold disdain, but they were glad enough of her services afterward, and the men loved her from the first. A great slight was lately put upon Miss Garlick by the Native Sons and Daughters. I should have thought that the Native Daughters would have seen to it that the one California woman who served through the campaign would have received proper recognition, but, as usual, the Daughters forgot their own sex in making a fuss over the men. Miss Garlick was told that there was a medal for her, and she went to the Presidio with the rest, but when she arrived she found there was no medal for her; she was snubbed and humbled before thousands of people. Of course snubs are nothing new for women nurses, but it does seem that when women go out to save the lives that men go to take, they might be honored as their lofty calling deserves, especially when they serve their country and their profession entirely without pay.

Circus parties continue to be the rage ever since the big tents have been pitched across the bay. Mrs. Tucker's party to her grandchildren was one of the most delightful of those given on this side of the bay. Mrs. Tucker entertained two children from the home of each daughter, except that the younger Williams child was too small to go, but there were two Millers, two Derricks, two McNears and little Philip Williams. Besides the real grandchildren there were the cousins of the grandchildren, among them Christian Miller and some other young folks. They had a big 'bus to ride out in, with Mrs. Tucker and Miss Mae Tucker for chaperones, and I doubt if happier children ever went to a circus.

There will be a large gathering at Mrs. Schilling's today, for the invitations have been generally accepted and a great many people are preparing to go. Many will even come over from the city.

Mrs. George Hammer has sent out cards for the first and second Mondays in October. These will be the first receptions given by Mrs. Hammer since her removal to her new cottage in Fruitvale. She has a dainty house, charmingly furnished.

Fruitvale will be quite lively this winter, although the Albright family and its connections are in mourning. Mrs. Valentine Hush is in New York with Mrs. Tom Magee Jr. and Mr. Hush. They will remain for the Dewey celebration and will then come directly to California. Mrs. Hush is happily restored to health.

Miss Helen Cooper, an Oakland girl whom I have not the pleasure of knowing, has put a greeting to President Wheeler into verse. It gives me pleasure to reprint it here, and to say that if Miss Cooper continues to write as well as this something will be heard of her before long in larger places than Oakland. Miss Cooper is a sophomore at the State University, and she has a gift at verse which is unusual. There is something in the song that rings true and fine. Listen:

"TO PRESIDENT WHEELER—GREETING."

Not the gleaming lights of the banquet board,
Nor speech nor toast,
Will greet you best when you meet us here
On our western coast—
Where Berkeley hills slope down, brown-wrapped
By our summer late;
And the deep oak groves lie swathed in mist
From the Golden Gate—
But a college yell from the waving mass
On the bleachers long,
Andfrencollege kw kwgf bm mmmf
And from college men to a college man—
A college song!

* * *

President Wheeler is now on his way to Berkeley, having already left Chicago. He will be warmly greeted.

* * *

Mrs. and Mrs. F. M. Smith, Miss Marion Smith and the others of the Arbor Villa household will leave New York as soon as the Dewey celebration is over. Very soon the great house will be occupied again.

Walter Heffelfinger the great Berkeley football coach is in San Francisco.

Miss Jessie Campbell is to give a tea today. Miss Campbell is the sister of Donald Y. Campbell and a sister-in-law of the Watts. The invitation list is large and some two hundred cards have been sent out. I am glad that it comes today as it will take people out and they will go from the Campbells to the Schillings or vice versa.

The Association of Collegiate Alumnae, in which so many young Oakland women are interested, holds its annual meeting today at the club rooms of Sorosis, 1620 California street, San Francisco. Among the officers and prominent members of the Association from Oakland are Miss Anita Whitney, Miss McLean, the president, Miss Rachel Vrooman, Miss Mabel Craft, Miss Mary Wilson, Miss Caroline Cushing, of the High School, and a number of others. The members are all graduates of colleges and universities, you know, and they are supposed to read very learned papers.

I'm afraid this isn't a very illuminating letter this time. Somehow news hasn't seemed to flow in, with its customary alacrity. I'm rather shy of material but that's your fault, not mine. Anyway I've refrained from my besetting sin of gossip so you must give me a long mark.

Auf wiedersehen,

THE MEDDLER.

MURRAY-BARTLETT.

The marriage of Miss Eleanor G. Murray, formerly of Virginia City, and George Bartlett took place on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The edifice was filled with friends of the young couple, who came to witness the ceremony.

As the bridal procession moved down the aisle Miss Catherine Loftus rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march. Rev. Father King officiated.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes Murray. Rev. T. P. Bartlett, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

The bride was attired in a handsome tailor-made traveling gown of gray. A velvet hat of the same color, trimmed with white wings, was worn. She carried a bouquet of bride roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. M. A. Murray, 569 Tenth street. The house was prettily decorated with a profusion of pink sweet peas and La France roses, intermingled with evergreens.

Only the relatives and a few intimate friends were present. During the evening musical selections were rendered by Miss Catherine Loftus and Miss Mulligan.

A wedding supper was served later in the evening, the table decorations being in pink.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett will spend their honeymoon in Santa Cruz, and on their return will reside in this city.

Many handsome presents were received by the young couple.

Those present at the reception were: Mrs. Mary Murray, Mrs. A. Buslaeger of Truckee, Mr. and Mrs. T. Fennessy, Mr. and Mrs. D. Clark, Mrs. Loftus, Miss Catherine Loftus, Miss May Loftus, Miss Mulligan, Miss Clara Maloon, Miss Nellie Maloon, Miss Esther Doolan, Miss Agnes Murray, Frank Moore, Dr. T. P. Bartlett, Charles Enes, Alfred Orton, Frank Pratt, W. F. Dade, Samuel Williamson and Clarence McCain.

BREWER--TURNER.

Miss Annie Brewer and George C. Turner were quietly married on Tuesday afternoon at the Brooklyn Presbyterian Church.

Owing to the recent death of George R. Turner, the father of the groom, only the immediate families of the couple were present. Miss Mabelle Bowman presided at the organ and rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. S. Chapman.

Mr. and Mrs. Turner will stay for a short time in San Rafael, and later on will make their home in San Francisco.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

A delightful surprise party was tendered to Miss Elize Gambs, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gambs of West street, by her many friends at her home last Monday evening previous to her departure on an extended visit with relatives in New York City. The home was prettily decorated with ferns and cut flowers by her friends during her absence. The evening was spent in playing various games, and a dainty supper was served. After all had partaken of refreshments Mr. Adolph Schleuter in a few well-chosen remarks presented to Miss Gambs in behalf of her friends a beautiful gold vase as a slight token of their love. When departing at a late hour everyone wished her a pleasant and safe journey.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. Schleuter, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Schleuter, Mr. and Mrs. Cheney, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schult, Mr. and Mrs. Nelle, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gambs, Mrs. J. Schmidt, Miss Pauline Schumacher, Miss Lillie Schumacher of San Francisco, Miss Katherine Colbett, Miss Helene Gambs, Miss Hattie Gambs, Miss Elize Gambs, Miss Retta Whittaker, Miss Odelia Messmer, Miss Marble, Miss Emma Phillips, Mr. Schumacher of San Francisco, Dr. Tate, Harry Grifling, H. Hughes, J. Hurley, Dan Leary, Mr. Whittaker, Mr. Chubb, Theodor Hook, Charles Phillips.

WINTER COTILLION CLUB.

The Winter Cotillion Club will give its opening party for the season at Reed Hall this evening. Two exceptionally pretty marching figures of the german are to be given. These will be led by Miss Marietta Havens and Mr. McNab. The first set is to include Miss May Young and Jack Hoffman, Miss Carrie Colt and George Sessions, Miss Gertrude Gould and Will Smith, Miss Lena Everett and Whipple Hall, Miss May Kenna, and Mr. Valentine, Miss Ada Kenna and Mr. Robinson, Miss Helen Eaton of Los Angeles and Clarke Briggs, Miss Braden and Mr. Braden, Miss Sadie Hale and Will Olney.

After the german there is to be dancing. A great deal of interest centers about the opening party of this poular club.

FEIBUSH--OATMAN.

Mr. Traby Oatman, a young well-known business man of this city, was united in marriage on Thursday to Miss Martha Feibush, a charming and estimable young lady of Oakland.

The ceremony was performed in San Francisco and was strictly private.

Mr. and Mrs. Oatman have the best wishes of a wide circle of friends.

A FAREWELL TEA.

Miss Emma Grimwood gave a very charming informal tea last Saturday afternoon at her home on Twenty-sixth avenue in honor of Miss Carrie Ritter. The affair was largely attended, as it was a farewell reunion of Miss Ritter's friends before her departure for Los Angeles, where she was married to James Gamble on Wednesday.

The decorations of the Grimwood home were simple and very dainty.

Light refreshments were served during the afternoon.

Miss Grimwood was assisted in receiving her guests by Miss Laura Crellin, Miss Grace Sanborn, Miss Elsie Marwedel, Miss Bessie Palmer, Miss Anita Whitney, Mrs. Arthur Malins, Miss Sarah Dunn, Miss Grace Wetherel, Miss Martha Alexander, Miss Louise Mahoney, Miss Mona Crellin and Miss Georgie Shanklin.

HOUSE-WARMING.

The housewarming given by the members of Phi Delta Theta last Saturday, from 3 until 6 o'clock in their club house at Berkeley was a most enjoyable affair. About 350 guests were present, including a number of the faculty and many members of the alumni of the fraternity.

The club house was thrown open to the visitors and they strolled about listening to the music and admiring the most attractive decorations. A mandolin orchestra stationed in a recess under the stairway played a number of selections during the reception.

Bamboo and quantities of hop vines were used with fine effect in the parlors.

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW MARTIN.

Miss Genevieve Goad, who is well-known in Oakland society, was married Tuesday at noon to Andrew Martin. The wedding took place at the bride's home in San Francisco.

Pretty Wedding at North Oakland.

A pretty wedding occurred on Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. J. E. Macdonald, 742 Sycamore street, when the eldest daughter of the house, Miss May I. Macdonald, became the bride of Bertram T. Tuttle.

The residence was most daintily decorated for the occasion with a profusion of evergreens and flowers.

The ceremony was performed in the drawing-room under a bower formed by an artistic arrangement of hop vines. The background was of tall palm leaves, bamboo and ferns. The mantel was hidden by quantities of woodwardia fern. A large bunch of beautiful magnolias was effectively placed upon it.

A jardiniere, filled to overflowing with fragrant sweet peas, was upon the piano, and the room presented a most attractive appearance.

The reception room was all in green, potted palms and evergreens making a most inviting decoration.

The dining-room was in pink and green, pink carnations and branches of pepper tree being used to carry out the color scheme.

At 8 o'clock the wedding party entered the drawing room to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, delightfully rendered on the piano by Mrs. I. E. Cohen.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Effie Macdonald. Benjamin Tuttle acted as best man. The impressive service of the Episcopal Church was read by Chaplain Wood of the Twenty-third Infantry, U. S. A., who officiated.

The bride looked very lovely in a gown of cream silk, made en train and trimmed with lace. She carried a large bunch of bride roses.

Miss Effie Macdonald wore a dainty gown of blue organdie. Her bouquet was of bridesmaid roses.

Congratulations followed the ceremony, after which a tempting wedding supper was served in the prettily decorated dining room. The tables were beautified by the use of smilax and pink begonias.

During the evening selections were given by a trio composed of Miss Tuttle, Ben Tuttle and B. Frank Howard.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle departed on their wedding journey under a shower of rose leaves. They will make their home in Dyerville, Humboldt county, where the groom is in business.

Many handsome gifts testified to the esteem in which the young people are held by their friends.

Those who attended the wedding were: Mrs. E. B. Tuttle, Miss J. B. Tuttle, Miss Florence Tuttle, Ben Tuttle, Robert Tuttle, Robert L. Painter, Lorin Painter, Mrs. J. E. Macdonald, Reba Macdonald, Alex Macdonald, E. L. Macdonald, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Hinman, Miss E. B. Hinman, Joseph Hinman, B. Frank Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mrs. I. E. Cohen, Miss Belle Case, Mrs. A. B. Canfield, Mrs. Agard, Miss Lulu Wood, Miss Bessie Forest, Curtiss Forest, Miss Annie Beach, Miss Clara Beach, Miss Kittie Cole, Mrs. I. E. Long, Mrs. J. A. Watson, R. F. Hilligrass, Mrs. James Woodhoff, Miss Annie Woodhoff, Miss Miller and Master Miller, Elsie Caulfield, Joseph Hinman.

Social Afternoon at the Schillings.

The "at home" of the ladies of the West Oakland Free Kindergarten at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Schilling, on Jackson street, this afternoon, promises to be a brilliant affair. The hours are from 3 o'clock until 7. The grounds are an ideal place in which to spend a few hours. There are to be booths of all kinds, where charitably inclined people may give their mite toward helping the little ones whose lives are cast in less fortunate places.

The Palace Grillroom orchestra will furnish the music for the afternoon. In the evening there is to be a magnificent electrical display.

Mrs. H. K. Belden, the president, and Mrs. A. Schilling, the vice-president, will be assisted in receiving the guests by the directors of the kindergarten—Mrs. Robert Watt, Mrs. J. W. Shanklin, Mrs. Henry Wadsworth, Mrs. G. W. Palmanteer, Mrs. O. P. Downing, Mrs. Alexander Martin, Mrs. E. Bishop, Mrs. Marcus Hyde, Mrs. Quinn, Mrs. Gray, Mrs. M. W. Kales, Mrs. James Allen, Mrs. Will Meek.

Miss Florine Brown is to have charge of the candy booth, and will be ably assisted by the little workers of the Thimble Bee Club. Among them are Ruth and Rose Kales, Irene Bangs, Daisy and Nadine Belden, Elsie Schilling, Mary and Katherine Hyde, Clara English and Ruth Houghton.

Many of the most popular Oakland girls have offered their assistance and will be found in the various booths. They include the Misses Florine Brown, Jean and Florence Hush, Marietta Havens, Mona and Laura Crellin, Sadie Hale, Pauline and Ione Fore, Cordelia Bishop, Georgie Strong, Emma and Eva Knight, Carolyn Oliver, the Misses Gray and Jennie Barry.

Every detail of the affair has been most carefully carried out, and the afternoon is sure to be a great social and financial success.

Evening Chrips at The Athenian Club

Tonight at the Athenian Club there will be an evening of rare pleasure, rare even for that organization where festive gatherings are always on a high plane when considered from a convivial, intellectual and social point of view. There will be a banquet which will be a revelation even to the bon vivants and the friends of the members of the club. There will also be a number of well prepared papers on interesting topics by gentlemen qualified to discuss the subjects assigned to them. The writers of these papers form a galaxy which has seldom, if ever, been equaled in versatility and ability in the fruitful history of this organization. To enjoy this feast of good things of the larder as well as of the vintage and the intellect, all the members of the club who are now at home, supplemented by a number of their friends, will be on hand. The occasion will be presided over in a model manner by Congressman Victor H. Metcalf. Among the orators will be Edward Hamilton, the graceful and forceful contributor to the Examiner, formerly a resident of this city and now of San Francisco, whose subject will be "Ancient Athens;" Charles G. Yale, who will speak on "Athens as It Was;" R. M. Fitzgerald, who will apostrophize "Athens as It Is," and John A. Britton, who will cast the horoscope in "Athens as It Will Be."

These discussions will have little to do with the Athens of Pericles. They will be inspired by the "Athens of the Pacific," and its leading social male organization, which has long been representative of its surroundings through its array of men distinguished in the professions, in science and in the arts.

There will be music by Messrs. Graham, Coffin, Melvin, Rickart, a full string band and the famous chorus of the Bohemian Club. The exercises will open at 7 o'clock p. m.

The library resembled a garden of roses, numbers of the fragrant blooms being most artistically arranged. In the reception rooms large silken flags were gracefully draped about the walls. The fireplace was banked with greens, and the apartment presented a very inviting appearance.

Dainty refreshments were served during the afternoon.

A number of guests were invited for the evening, when dancing was the principal amusement. Altogether the event was one of the pleasantest ever given by any of the fraternities in the college town.

WILL WED NEXT WEEK.

Cards are out for the wedding of Miss Elvira Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Martin of 702 Tenth street and Frank H. Woodward. The marriage will take place on Thursday, October 5, at the residence of the bride's parents.

Miss Martin is a charming young lady and is a vocalist of ability, having spent some time in study abroad. Her rich contralto voice has been the source of much pleasure to her many friends.

Mr. Woodward is well known here, where he has lived most of his life. He is connected with the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company.

The young man is building a pretty home for his bride in San Francisco, where they will reside.

FUTURE EVENTS.

Mrs. Greenwood will give a tea on October 6th, at her home, corner of Durant and Jackson streets, in honor of Miss Ethel Kellogg. The list of invitations is large and the afternoon is sure to be a very delightful one.

Sometime about the middle of October Mrs. George Hammer is to be "at home" to her many friends. The pretty tea is to be quite a feature of the social season.

This afternoon, from 3 o'clock until 6, a tea will be given at the home of Mrs. Donald T. Campbell on Orchard street. Mrs. Campbell, Miss Jessie Campbell and Mrs. Jones will receive the guests.

The officers of the Club are Fred Anton, president; Mal Reeves, vice-president and W. P. Rigney, secretary and treasurer.

The Parlor will hold its tenth anniversary ball at Pythian Hall on Thursday evening, October 19th, and the affair promises to be a grand event. The committee is working hard to make it a very great success.

PARTY AT PLEASANTON.

Mrs. Pauline Nusbaumer, of this city, gave a reception on Friday evening of last week to her many friends in and around Pleasanton, at the Nevis Pavilion. The affair was undoubtedly the swellest that has ever taken place there.

On the sides of the pavilion and strung across the ceiling were garlands of hop vines loaded with the blossoms, making a most picturesque scene. Mrs. Nusbaumer and Mr. and Mrs. Schweer received the guests while standing beneath a beautiful arbor composed of the vines.

Games, music, both instrumental and vocal, and recitations made the evening pass pleasantly. At 11 o'clock dancing commenced, the music being furnished by the Downey orchestra.

At midnight a beautiful repast was served in the banquet room, which had been nicely decorated. Here all was merriment. Dr. Cope was toastmaster. Toasts were responded to by Mrs. Pauline Nusbaumer, Mr. Benedict, Mr. Donohue, Mr. Peck, Supervisor Wells, Mr. Hordenstein, and Mr. Green.

THE VENJOHANN MUSICALE.

A very successful musicale was given by Miss Marie Ada Venjohann and her pupils, at her residence, 60 Eleventh street, last Saturday afternoon, September 23d.

The piano occupied a conspicuous place in the center of the front parlor, which was beautifully decorated with ferns and flowers. A large portrait of Mozart stood on an easel back of the piano. The back parlor served as an auditorium.

Selections were rendered from Chopin, Mendelssohn, Moszkowski, Paderewski, Mascagni, Bohm, Gurlitt and de Kontski.

The pupils show they have been well trained, and that their teacher is following in the footsteps of her teacher, Ernest Hartmann.

Miss Marie Kehoe, Miss Lottie Bennett and Miss Freida Hansen possess a beautiful touch. Little Elinor Hook and Bella Howell won the hearts of all present in the manner in which they interpreted their selections. Arnold Rose possesses rare talent, and bright musical future is before him.

Miss Pauline Merle, of Alameda, rendered "Home, Sweet Home" (with variations) as the last number on the program.

During the intermission a song and dance was given by little Gertrude Narvaez, who is well known in Oakland as a very artistic little dancer.

ENGLAND TO MAKE THE FIGHT

Ready to Give Boers Battle in the South.

Gossip About People of Prominence in and About London.

(Copyright, 1899 by the Associated Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Comment regarding the personnel and material of the British force which will be expected to be fighting within a short time in South Africa, continues to occupy a large share of public attention. Many criticisms appear, blaming the government for not permitting the War Office months ago to put an adequate defensive force on the probable scene of action. But the rumors of the forthcoming departure of an army corps somewhat appease the critics. It is almost certain General Sir Redvers Buller, the former Adjutant-General, will have supreme command in South Africa. In the meantime, the military responsibility is divided between Major-General Sir George Stewart White and Lieutenant-General Sir Frederick Forester-Walker, the latter at the Cape and the former in Natal, each being supreme over his own district.

General White, who is described as a fighting man, "keen as mustard," has not yet arrived in Natal. Upon him will devolve the duty of checking any desultory Boer raids, or, in case of actual hostilities, of holding Natal until General Buller's army corps arrives, when the aggressive British campaign will probably occur. Some dissatisfaction is expressed because General White has never served in South Africa. It is generally thought that his fighting abilities will more than make up his lack of topographical knowledge. Under Generals White and Walker will be a host of officers specially selected for their knowledge of Boer methods and South African campaigning.

BRITISH COMMANDERS.

General Sir William Symons, General White's second in command, is one of the few survivors of the massacre of Isandlwhana. The artillery in Natal will be commanded by Colonel Downing, late chief instructor at the school of gunnery. Shoeburyness, who has the highest scientific and practical reputation, comparing somewhat with Rear Admiral Sampson's reputation in the United States Navy as an ordinance expert. Major-General French, commanding the cavalry, is a dashing officer, somewhat on the lines of an American officer. Gen. Young served through the early Egyptian campaigns.

Much has been said regarding the physical unfitness of a large percentage of the British rank and file going to South Africa or already there. A great difference of opinion on the subject exists. But it can be said that the regiments selected are believed to have the highest standard of physique and are all comparatively long-service men.

Many of the British officers believe the Mauser, with which the Boers are armed, is superior to the Lee-Metford of the British forces against civilized troops. A small-arms expert said to a representative of the Associated Press: "The Lee-Metford will stop savages, but that is not the object which is most desirable when fighting against civilized forces. Under a well managed Mauser fire troops will come on, dropping gradually from the effect of galling wounds and not realizing the necessity of cover or retreat until, when within the deadly zone, they find half their number disabled and unable to face the full weight of short-range firing. In other words, Mauser armed troops are more deceptive to the enemy than to those armed with Lee-Metfords, the effect of the latter being immediately visible to the officers deciding the fight."

The Indian and Australian horses which will be much used by the cavalry and mounted infantry will probably suffer more from the change of country than the men, being obliged to live on oats and meadies, a form of fodder they are utterly unaccustomed to.

LORD WOLSELEY SNUBBED.

The apparent inclination of the Secretary of State for War, the Marquis of Lansdowne, to run the campaign preparations on his own ideas and his tendency to consult subordinate officers have called forth a published reminder that he has a capable Commander-in-Charge at his elbow. Some comparisons are made as to the status of Feld Marshal Lord Wolseley compared with that of Major-General Miles when the latter was reported to have been disregarded by Secretary Alger.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY.

Alaskan boundary matters are still taking up considerable attention of the Foreign Office. The Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Sir L. H. Davies, is daily visiting the officials who are busy drawing up maps in illustration of the Canadian contention. He expects to finish his share of the matter in two weeks. He will probably return home October 15th. The negotiations at present apparently are confined to consultations between Great Britain and Canada, the United States Embassy taking little or no interest in them until Sir Davies reaches an understanding with the imperial government. Reports of the arrival of a settlement continue to appear, but these are as unreliable as they are contradictory.

Sir Davies said to a representative of the Associated Press: "It is impossible to give any statement at present."

Asked if he was going over the lower bay proposition he said: "No, not exactly. I am here solely to represent the stand of the Canadian government."

It is inferred that no definite settlement will be reached until after the convening of the high commission.

CHOATE CARTOONED.

Mr. Joseph Choate, the United States Embassador, who is still in Scotland, is the subject of this week's Vanity Fair cartoon, a by no means unkind caricature. Humorously describing the Embassador, the paper says he is known as the Charles Russell of America, is an irreproachable man of charming manners, well married, yet he still regards life as a jest, adding: "He is an American Embassador, yet he is no poet."

M. A. P. (Mainly About People) says it has been Sir Thomas Lipton's keen ambition for years to become the challenger for the America's cup and that the popular conception of him as not knowing much about yachts is a mistake, as twelve years ago, when the Thistle was fitting out, Lipton, who was then in business in Glasgow, took the greatest interest in all the details of her sails, and he has done a great deal for yachting in one way and another and knows how to handle a boat better than 99 out of 100 of his critics.

LONDON PRESS ON DEWEY.

The papers print long special dispatches from New York describing the welcome accorded there to Admiral Dewey. Most of them, while not professing to quite understand the tremendous enthusiasm, treat the outburst as an excellent feature of the national character.

The Daily Mail special says: "Being on the spot it is impossible not to enter the spirit of the thing and to participate in the enthusiasm. It is not hard to understand the magnetic patriotism of this vast, lovably national people whose emotions are as keen in expression and as frank and unrestrained as children. It is also necessary to realize the strong, simple, modest, attractive personality of Admiral Dewey. He is the one figure without a flaw. One man outside a party."

Nat Goodwin has recovered from his illness and appears today at the Duke of York Theater, which closes October 14th.

Miller Kent, who took Mr. Goodwin's part, has received a handsome testimonial from Mr. Goodwin and Charles Frohman.

"CHINA HALL" OPENING.

A Business Move of Unusual Interest to the People of Oakland.

Most Beautiful Store in the City to Open Its Doors on Next Monday Evening.

It is rarely that the advent of a new mercantile enterprise arouses such general interest as has been shown in the refitting of the old Ackerman and Poheim stores for their occupation by the Howell-Dohrmann Company. The attention which the prospective opening of this store has attracted is due partly to the fact that Mr. F. W. Dohrmann, who made his first venture in business life as a member of the firm of Lamarche and Dohrmann on the corner of Seventh and Broadway streets, Oakland, as far back as 1864, is President of the new company, and is well and favorably known all over the Coast as a successful business man and public-spirited citizen; and also to the local popularity of Mr. George W. Howell, Vice-President and Manager, who has made a great many warm friends in the five years that he has been a merchant of Oakland. The incorporation of the business established by Mr. Howell, and the alliance with the firm of Nathan, Dohrmann & Co., will prove a great advantage, not only to Mr. Howell, but to everybody on this side of the bay. The new company will be personally represented in the foreign markets by Nathan, Dohrmann & Co.'s buyer, and will thus keep in touch with the potteries of England, France, Germany, Holland and Italy. The European buyer goes abroad annually in time to be present at the celebrated "Messe" in Leipsic, where representatives of all of the German potteries and Bohemian glass factories gather with their samples, the week after Easter. The New York office of Nathan, Dohrmann & Co. will see that the shelves of "China Hall," as the Oakland store is to be called, are supplied with the best work of the American factories, and, altogether, those who appreciate genuine merit in ceramics will find this a very satisfactory place to visit.

Although the small army of mechanics engaged in transforming and modernizing the store have still much to do before the elaborate plans of the company are completed, a TRIBUNE reporter, who called upon Manager Howell yesterday, obtained a fair idea of what the place will be, and it is safe to predict that it will soon head the list of Oakland's show places.

Under the new arrangements the store will have a frontage of seventy-five feet on Fourteenth street and fifty-three on Washington, and, with the exception of the three entrances, all of this one hundred and twenty-eight feet is plate glass, affording unlimited opportunity for window display. Having two entire walls of glass to admit light by day, and two hundred incandescent lamps to illumine the main floor by night, it can readily be seen that this will be an exceptionally bright and attractive store.

By the construction of a ballustraded gallery on all sides and across the center, a great deal of extra space had been secured, and much of the stock is already in place. The gallery is devoted to the display of lamps of every description, banquet and gas globes and chamber sets. Where the gallery crosses the windows the shelving has been built against the glass with the double object of showing the banquet globes which occupy it to passers by on the street, and that visitors passing along the gallery may see the colors as they will appear when the globes are in use.

On the main floor, dinner sets and fancy and decorated china occupy the eastern half, the western portion being used for table glassware, white table china, etc. At the rear is the "Crystal Room," where rich cut glasss dazzles the eye, the "Art Room," with its statuettes, bronzes, Bohemian vases and other fine wares, the plated ware and hotel departments. The manager's private office is also in this part of the store.

In the basement, which is reached by a broad stairway leading from the center of the main floor, is the household goods department, where are found not only a full line of stoves and ranges in up-to-date patterns, including gas and oil stoves, but granite and enameled ware, and household necessities of every description from mouse traps to steel ranges. Also in the basement, but separated from this room by a partition, are the shipping, delivery, receiving and reserve stock rooms.

This description is necessarily but a brief outline, on account of limited space in this issue, but the Japanese have a saying that "Once seeing is better than a hundred times telling about." The company's announcement of the opening day, when a fine orchestra will be in attendance, will be found in another column of this paper.

MUSIC AND DANCING.

Last Sunday night there was a most successful sanger-fest and ball given in Germania Hall under the auspices of the Singing Section of the Oakland Verein Entracht. There was a large attendance and the affair partook of the nature of a family gathering on a large scale.

The presence of the Concordia Society of Alameda, comprising as it did, a mixed chorus of male and female voices, was gratefully appreciated by the members and friends of the home organization.

When the Club had rendered its selection, which it did in a very capable manner, President Adolph Schubert appeared on the stage and thanked the auditors in behalf of the Alameda delegation for the hearty reception which had been accorded them. He took occasion, also, to state that, on the 6th of next month, the Concordia would again appear in this city, and for that appearance, the Macdonough Theater had been secured. The entertainment would contain a number of musical numbers and, at the same time include an excellent presentation of the German comedy, "Im Weissen Roessl," which, in other words, means, "The White Horse Tavern." The comedy is the work of Blumenthal and Kadelburg of Berlin. It will be produced under the supervision of Arthur Becker, the stage director. The play consists of three acts which abound in humorous situations and the sprightliest kind of merriment.

COMING NUPTIALS.

The marriage of Miss Sadie Sinclair and J. H. Glide, Jr., of Sacramento, will take place at the home of the bride, on Thirteenth and Madison streets next Wednesday evening.

Owing to the recent death of the bride's grandmother the wedding will be a quiet one, only relatives of the young people being invited to witness the ceremony.

The bride is a very charming young lady, and her many friends are sincerely sorry to hear that her future home is to be in Sacramento.

The wedding of Miss Jessie Kimble, of Los Angeles, and Charles B. Parcells, of this city, will take place on October 25th at Los Angeles.

The engagement is announced of Adrian Gilbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian A. Gilbert, of this city, to Miss Rose Castle, of Stockton. The date of the wedding has not been set, but will take place some time during the holiday season.

Miss Castle is the charming daughter of Thomas Castle, an old resident of Stockton, and one of California's pioneers. The young lady is accomplished and very popular in society in Stockton.

Mr. Gilbert is well known in this city, where he has lived most of his life. For the past five years he has been practicing dentistry in Stockton, where he has been most successful.

The wedding of Miss Louise Bird and Frederick Scott Price will take place next Tuesday evening, at the Santa Clara Avenue M. E. Church, Alameda.

A reception at the home of the bride's mother, 603 Haight street, will follow the ceremony.

Mr. Price is connected with the Union Coursing Park and he and his bride will make their home at Ocean View.

GOAD--MARTIN

A number of people from this side of the bay witnessed the marriage of Miss Genevieve Goad and Andrew A. Martin on Wednesday. The event took place at high noon at the Goad residence, at the corner of Washington and Gough streets, and was the most fashionable affair that has taken place in San Francisco this season.

The decorations of the residence were extremely elaborate and very beautiful. Hundreds of exquisite roses, orchids and rare ferns were most artistically arranged. Jardineres filled with beautiful roses lined the broad staircase, and quantities of the choicest hothouse blooms were placed about the apartments.

The ceremony took place in the spacious east drawing-room, and the bridal procession was a most picturesque one. The strains of the "Bridal Song" from Lohengrin were heard as two of the ushers, Peter D. Martin and Edward M. Greenway entered the room holding the ends of long white ribbons, which formed an isle for the wedding party. Next came maid of honor, Miss Hattie Belle Goad, a cousin of the bride. The bride followed, leaning on the arm of her brother, Frank Goad. Frederick McNear and Addison Mizner, the other ushers, closed the procession.

Andrew Martin and his best man, Walter S. Martin, met the bride under the bridal bower. Vicar-General Prendergast spoke the words that united the couple.

The bride wore an elegant gown of white duchess satin, made en train and trimmed with exquisite lace, which had once been worn by her mother. A long tulle veil reached to the hem of her gown, and she carried a shower bouquet of magnificent orchids.

Miss Eattie Goad was gowned in white silk and carried a bouquet of roses.

After an informal reception the guests, relatives and intimate friends only adjourned to the dining-room, where a wedding breakfast was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin left for the southern part of the State on the afternoon train. The honeymoon will be passed at Palm Springs, where the groom has a beautiful country home.

The presents were numerous and unusually handsome.

The bride is the youngest of the beautiful Goad sisters. She is a brilliant woman and is highly accomplished.

Mr. Martin is a popular club man, and is one of California's wealthy young men.

CREW--AYLWIN.

Miss Josephine G. Crew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Crew, of Lorin, and Robert Newton Aylwin were married on Wednesday evening at the Park Congregational Church, on Fairview street.

The Church was elaborately decorated for the event with garlands of smilax, evergreens and flowers. The altar was a picture, covered with white roses and ferns. The bride and groom stood beneath a large floral bell while the words were spoken that made them man and wife.

Just previous to the entry of the bridal procession Mrs. Blake-Alverson sang Hawley's "Greeting." When the last strains of the beautiful melody had died away Mendelsshon's wedding march was rendered, and the bridal party entered the church.

Miss Louise Crew and Miss Stella Alywin were the bridesmaids. Little Miss Conway was flower girl and Master Stanley Duncan acted as ring bearer. Bert Rogers was the best man.

The bride was gowned in a beautiful creation of white lansdowne, trimmed with old lace. She wore a veil caught up with a spray of orange blossoms.

After the service Mrs. Alverson sang delightfully "When to Thy Vision," from Faust. The wedding march from Lohengrin was played while the wedding party left the church.

A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents at Lorin, which had been most tastefully embellished by the use of evergreens and flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Alywin departed on a short wedding journey, and on their return will reside in this city.

CHILDREN AT THE READING ROOMS.

Oakland, September 29th, 1899.

Editor Tribune—The public has been favored lately with a full account of the manner in which the reading room in North Oakland is run. It occurs to me to ask, is it not about time to reflect as to what we are doing in the interest of the public with our reading rooms. It is supposed they are established for the benefit of those that can read the current news of the day, and that they are not places for children to gather in and to amuse themselves with such literature as may be found in such places. I, for one, do not believe that a child under 14 years of age should be allowed to attend a reading room. The place for children is home or under the surveillance of their guardians. Children who attend school, and we suppose that all children do that, have enough to tax their brains with the studies given them from day to day by their teachers, and should not be allowed to have their attention drawn from them by any sideshows.

Reading rooms are not intended for kindergartens, and if any reading rooms have to resort to the expedient of inducing children to attend to make up a showing of a large attendance, it is plain to the mind of the public that the room is not wanted in a location where this is done. The suggestion made in the Enquirer of the 22d inst., that we should have playgrounds for the children and a reading room in the center of it, has caused a broad smile over the faces of a good many of our citizens, who on inquiry as to whether those ladies really meant what they said.

As a frequent visitor to the West Oakland reading room, I do hope that the Board of Trustees of the Library will not introduce the new fad of kindergartens in those reading rooms, as the attendance is large enough for the comfort of those that are regular readers.

Hoping that you will give this article a place in your valued newspaper, I remain yours truly,

I. A. UNDERWOOD.

NIGHT SCHOOL FOR MEN

For You to Read

"What puzzled me in the beginning was that I kept losing flesh without any cause for it that I could see. I had a little trouble with my stomach, too, and after a while began to grow weaker and to cough. The cough, I thought, would soon go away and cure itself, but it didn't. It grew worse, and then I began to spit up a peculiar looking substance. I never thought of consumption, but one day I had a hemorrhage, and then was frightened in earnest and did just what you would do. I rushed to the doctor. He was either too busy, or something else, for he didn't do me any good. I kept going on down hill, and the outlook was bad. Things took a different turn, however, when I heard of Acker's English Remedy for Consumption, for I took it, and it not only cured my coughing and spitting, but also built up my whole system. I took on permanent flesh, and today am just as healthy a man as you can find in a week's travel. You may be sure I always keep Acker's English Remedy in the house, and it is a good thing I do so, for one night my youngest child was seized with croup. That hoarse, wheezy cough was the first signal, and I lost no time in giving the poor little sufferer proper doses of this grand medicine. In almost no time the disease was under control, and my child was saved. I advise every parent to have a bottle handy all the time. It serves the same purpose in keeping croup out of the house that a good lock and key serve to keep burglars out. It is both an expectorant and a tonic. It cured me of consumption and my child of croup, and I know what I am talking about." (Signed) Hon. M. HOGAN, picture frame manufacturer, 242 Center Street, New York.

SIDELIGHTS ON POLITICS ACROSS THE BAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 30.There is one good development anent this extra session talk, and that is, that it has passed its tame and uneventful stage and has entered upon the period when scarcely a day is closed without witnessing a new situation in some form or other. For example, this day last week all the papers were still maintaining the proposition they started out on—that if an extra session were called Colonel Burns would be elected Senator beyond a question—whereas now the scene has changed, and they are as loudly declaring that the jig is up as far as the Colonel is concerned, and that the toga will be placed upon other shoulders.

Just how the scene was shifted is somewhat hard to say. "Blinker" Murphy started the story in Monday's Examiner, and then the papers that have been hammering at Burns ever since he showed his nose in the fight took it up, glad to have a fresh point of attack. An amusing outcome of the matter, though, is that it has succeeded in getting those ancient enemies, the Call and the Chronicle, at open loggerheads with one another again, for the moment the suggestion was made that Colonel Burns might retire in favor of De Young, the Call turned its batteries upon the new place of danger, and commenced a fusillade that has been continued every day since.

This latest Call-Chronicle fight is, of course, "pie" for the Colonel, for if the two Republican dailies get to wiping up the floor with each other, as now seems probable, they are not very likely to continue the hard-and-fast alliance against him that they formed at Sacramento. As for the gossip that is going the rounds, Colonel Burns says nothing, but smiles meaningly, and as his closest confidantes insist that the situation has not changed an iota, from the standpoint of his candidacy, it is difficult to see how any credit can be given to the yarns, for when sifted down it will be found that they amount to nothing more than the individual opinions of the writers penning them. On the other hand, there is plenty of evidence to be had that those who are engaged in making the Colonel's fight are still in the field, so as it is a case of something versus nothing, only one belief can reasonably result, and that is that the Colonel is just as much in the ring as ever he was.

SIZING UP THE SITUATION.

Where the puzzle comes in though, is as to just what results have been obtained. The canvass of the State has been pretty thoroughly completed by this time, and as the Colonel can therefore see exactly how he stands, it would be interesting to know what thoughts are passing through his mind as to the outcome. One phase of the situation seems to have been reasonably established, and that is that the bobtail caucus of sixty-one votes will not be possible, for to get the necessary agreement to that procedure would require almost that full number of Burns votes, which is at present out of the question.

Supposing, though, that an eighty-five caucus is held, will the Colonel be able to get the forty-three votes necessary for control, is the question that naturally arises, and upon that very point the whole outcome hangs. According to rumor, the Colonel can lay his hands on even more than that number if the election could be decided by secret ballot, but as to having that many out in the open, it is an entirely different proposition. As told to your correspondent by some one in a position to know what he was talking about, the plan is to hold caucuses every day during the week intervening between assembling and the day of election, and at each of these gatherings no other Burns men will declare themselves than those who have been in evidence under his banner right along.

On the Monday preceding the election, though, a grand coup will be made. After the caucus vote showing an absolute deadlock has been taken, a good orator—not a Burns man—will take the floor and make a vigorous speech. He will dwell on the fact that unless a Senator is elected at the extra session it will be a case of suicide for the Republican party, for to go before the people with the acknowledgement that no candidate considered fit to be Senator could be obtained in its own ranks would, without a doubt, mean that the voters would give the Democrats a chance to see what they could do. As a culmination of these oratorical pyrotechnics, the speaker will declare that the only way to arrive at a result will be to take a secret ballot. He will admit that it is an unwholesome way of disposing of the proposition, but on the theory of choosing the lesser of two evils, he will urge it rather than the sacrifice of the Republican party, and then, according to program, the motion will be carried after more or less debate.

WOULD BE A WALK-OVER.

On a secret ballot there does not seem the slightest doubt as to the outcome, for even the most fanatical anti-Burns man is willing to admit that it would mean the election of the Colonel. As to the objections that would be raised to disposing of the issue in such a manner, the point can be made that there is a Senatorial precedent of not very long standing where a secret ballot was taken on patronage, and if they could afford to do it on that proposition, they certainly could when so much more was at stake.

"You mark my words, though," remarked one of the leaders of the Senate to your correspondent yesterday, when the matter was being discussed, "if a secret vote is attempted in caucus there will be a walk-out—perhaps not enough to prevent a majority vote from being taken, but sufficient to make a good, round showing. As far as my personal position is concerned, I am in favor of having the Republicans go into session as soon as they reach Sacramento, and remain locked up without food or drink, especially the latter, until they nominate somebody. An extra session is injurious to the party that calls it, but if we could get through the business quickly, by electing a Senator and adjourning, this bad feature would be to a great extent removed. To go to Sacramento, though, and to remain there fighting and squabbling among ourselves for three or four weeks, would actually kill off the Republican party in this State for a couple of years and that is all there is to it."

THE QUAY END OF IT.

As to whether or not Colonel Burns will have an opportunity to take his seat by appointment, in the event of no extra session being held, it must be admitted that the developments of the week are somewhat on the other side of the fence. The statements being sent out from the East, though, are so contradictory in that respect that it is hard to glean anything from them, for one day the announcement is made that Senator Stone, at the request of the Administration, has decided to call an extra session, and then the next day will appear an alleged interview with him, in which he is credited with saying, "Why should I call an extra session when we have positive assurance that Senator Quay will be seated by his colleagues?" or words to that effect.

The most significant report in that connection that has come over the wires, though, is the one that the President has notified Governor Stone that the Administration cannot permit the Senate to reverse itself on the appointment issue on the eve of a general election. There is certainly a good deal of logic in this, for while it is true that the Senate will be Republican at the next session by a clear majority of fourteen, and hence can do what it likes on party matters, the fact that the Democrats would be only too glad to make a big card of a change of heart on the Senatorial matter prompts a good deal of caution as to movements in that regard.

However, whatever the exact situation may be, it is pretty certain to develop in the next few days, for if Colonel Burns is still as much in the fight as ever, he cannot afford to permit these reports of his withdrawal to be circulated much longer without either positive denial from his own lips or some action that will mean the same thing, for it, of course, does a candidate for any office a good deal of harm to have the story bruited about that he has withdrawn. In the cases of members who have been wavering it might mean the loss of their support altogether, for they would naturally be inclined to become more rooted than ever in their old channels if they believed that a change would be to no purpose.

RAILROAD RUMORS.

Next to the Senatorial developments, and what some people figure is to a certain extent akin to them, the big change in the Southern Pacific has been the central topic of conversation during the week. The certainty that the railroad has passed absolutely into the control of C. P. Huntington has given rise to all sorts of rumors as to probable changes, and a good deal of uneasiness prevails in certain official quarters in both the Hobart building and at Fourth and Townsend.

There is little doubt that Huntington turned all his energies toward obtaining full power over the road, because at the last annual meeting there was a tendency to deprive him of some of the authority he then possessed by sufferance. The removal of his nephew, H. E. Huntington from a high position of grace, and the knowledge that he himself could only remain safely intrenched as President by making certain concessions to the other elements in the directorate, is said to have nettled the old gentleman and to have brought about his pulling every string at his command until at last his authority became absolute by purchase of the Crocker interests. Heretofore Huntington has had to combine with either the Crocker or the Searles stock at the annual meeting in order to continue in control, but now he can go it alone, for he has the majority vote in his own hands.

One or two papers have endeavored to create an impression that Chief Counsel Herrin might be superseded as a result of the change, but there is absolutely nothing in such talk. Herrin, in fact, owes his position to Huntington, who recognized in him a man of superior ability, and the splendid financiering he has accomplished has made the President admire him more than ever. It was Herrin who abolished the old-time free-handed system of conducting railroad affairs, and although the change was felt keenly by those who were benefiting by the ultra-liberal methods inaugurated when Stanford was President, they are all now willing at least to admit that the present administration is a business-like one compared with that formerly prevailing.

W. H. Mills is also safe enough on the literary end of the road, for he has been a Huntington man from the first, and his advice and methods are much in favor with the reigning powers. J. C. Stubbs is another of the high officials who cannot be affected by the change, nor is J. A. Fillmore likely to be, for they are both invaluable to the company on account of their knowledge, especially as applied to the Southern Pacific's affairs.

Jerome Madden, the head of the land department, occupies a similar position, for he has handled that branch of the company's business for about a quarter of a century, and the knowledge stored away in his head could not be furnished by a new man. It is understood, though, that Madden personally would just as soon get out of harness as not, for he has put in an average life-time at the grindstone and feels that he is entitled to pass the remainder of his days in comfort.

Julius Kruttschnitt, the head of the operating department, is another Huntington man, so it can with reason be said that he is too well intrenched, while as for McCormick, who has just taken up the passenger business, he has undoubtedly come under some kind of contract, and hence could not be at present disturbed, even if it were desired. Just where these rumored changes come in, therefore, is hard to locate, for as a matter of fact a review of the situation shows that Huntington's men are running every department already and hence there would be no necessity for a new deal.

It is thought, though, that where one important move will be made will be in placing on this coast a personal representative of C. P. Huntington, who will have even more control over everything pertaining to the railroad than was accorded to H. E. Huntington up to the time of his withdrawal. Whether or not this all-powerful mogul will be H. E. Huntington again, is a matter of speculation. Should it prove not to be, the understanding is that the reins will be placed in the hands of some one sent out from the East.

PREPARING FOR A CHANGE.

They are making room over in the Hobart building for a new official, for the offices there that have been occupied by the Crocker estate are to be vacated, that establishment being transferred across the street to the Crocker building. The Crocker estate is a big proposition at the present time, for the two remaining minors will not be of age for many years and the interests are varied and constantly increasing. A whole half floor of the Crocker building is to be occupied by the offices of the estate, the tenants supplanted being shifted around to other parts of the building.

By the way, the Oakland contingent in the Crocker building has been increased by the advent of W. W. Camron, who has occupied offices on the same floor as Heron & Holcomb. A good many well-known Oaklanders have been drifting over here during the past couple of years, for in addition to the two firms named, Major Woodward is now running a real estate office on Montgomery street, W. J. Dingee has spacious quarters in the Mills building, A. A. Moore has located on California street, A. W. Burrell and Will Prather are in the Crocker building, Councilman Rowe is directing an insurance company, while ex-Councilman Fibush is flourishing in his new cigar store on Market street.

THE SAN FRANCISCO CHARTER.

The arguments before the Supreme Court on the charter issue have been anxiously watched this week by all the local political elements, because if by any chance the new measure is overturned there will be an end, for the time being, to the ambitions of the reform statesmen who are expecting to assume control of the city's affairs with the coming of the new year. The contest has been devoid of interest to the layman, as the issues are all made up of technicalities, which will call for the settlement of some close points by the Supreme Court.

Meantime, the would-be nominees are not taking any chances, and on the Democratic end of it, in particular, some very lively tussles are in order. The prettiest fight at the present time is that waging between Charles Wesley Reed and Supervisor Byington for the nomination for District Attorney, and it seems as if the issue has simmered down to between the two. Senator Porter Ashe, Eugene Duprey and a number of others who want the office have by no means given up hope regarding it, but Reed and Byington appear to be on the inside with the reigning powers, and it would be a good bet to take those two candidates against the field.

Reed was supposed to have originally gone into the fight with the solid backing of Gavin McNab, but of late that astute Scotchman's interest in the matter appears to be waning, prompted, doubtless, by a hint from his superior officer, the Mayor. Phelan would like to harmonize matters by having Byington run for Supervisor again, but that statesman declines the bait, and, hence, as Phelan cannot afford to antagonize him by supporting Reed, he has induced McNab to desist in his efforts in behalf of that candidate. Reed has got his back up at the way things have developed, and he has practically thrown down the gauntlet to both McNab and Phelan, by declaring that if they do not throw the nomination to him he will go on the floor of the convention and make an open fight for it, no matter who or what is disrupted.

REPUBLICANS ASTRAY.

The Republicans appear to be swinging around to Horace Davis as their standard bearer for Mayor, but they are likely to spring a surprise upon the community yet, for they have a candidate in reserve whom they are anxious to trot out if he is willing. This "dark horse" business, though, has been done to death, and unless they decide upon somebody pretty soon, and stay by him, they are likely to enter the ring "just in time to be too late."

The determination of the reform Republicans to fight anything and everything that was ever even associated with the old boss regime is being carried to extremes, for although no one can question the integrity of men such as John Leckmann, who wants the nomination for Sheriff, they are inclined to turn him down simply because, as one of their leaders puts it, "with the new charter we want to turn over a fresh leaf in the city's history and give the people a new deal all around."

The reformers say that they are not going to quit their labors when their present political engagements are concluded, but that they will maintain a permanent organization and endeavor to conduct politics here indefinitely. They intend to make a special effort next year, when the judicial, legislative and Congressional elections come up, and they say that if the people will stand with them they will send a legislative delegation to Sacramento that will make the rest of the State withdraw its standing sneers regarding the personnel of the San Francisco legislators. Hearing that Judge Dibble is a candidate for the Congressional nomination of the Fifth district, they have already got their hammers out for him, and judging by their promises as to their candidate, the man who will go to Washington from that district next year will wear a halo instead of a hat.

However, by the time the reformers have got through their trials and tribulations in connection with the present election they will find, as Phelan has done, that in order to insure political success it is possible to be too rabidly good, and that a sop must be thrown out here and there to the "push" element. Unless this is done and the votes of that section of the party are kept in line, the reformers will find that in endeavoring to build up Republicanism in San Francisco they have, in fact, wrecked it, for the "push" will not think twice about forming a combination with the Democrats in order to obtain concessions in the line of patronage. It is, in truth, said that some such deal has already been made as regards the forthcoming contest, for, according to rumor, Phelan has reached out for, and has obtained, the support of the Kelly-Crimmins hosts, by promising to that faction the patronage that goes with one member of the new Board of Works. This, of course, is merely street gossip and cannot be substantiated in any way, but it does not seem unlikely, for it is well known that the reform Republicans decline to treat with the Kelly-Crimmins people in any way on any proposition, and as they naturally do not want to be left out in the cold for the next two years, they might be willing to accept the overtures that Phelan is said to have made to them.

HERE AND THERE.

A letter received from Senator Stratton yesterday, dated Belfast, Ireland, September 16th, declares his intention of leaving Liverpool on the 26th, and that he will be back in Oakland about the middle of October. This is in line with what has already been announced regarding his movements, and is mentioned just to show that he has not made any change in his plans.

Lou Brown of the State Board of Equalization is in town.

Bert Lambert, once an Oakland newspaper man employed at various times on THE TRIBUNE, Times and Enquirer, and who enlisted and went to Manila with the Californians last year, did not return with the regiment. A letter received from him this week states that he has been engaged as war correspondent for Freedom, the American paper published in the Philippines, and that he is going to the front again.

HATTON.

CLAY CLEMENT TALKS OF LILIAN LAMSON

Clay Clement, in real life, is the same genial, gentlemanly, good-natured individual which he appears upon the stage. He is devoted to his profession, and he essays no character to which he does not give the closest study and upon which he does not lavish the fullness of his powers as artist and actor.

For a few minutes between acts last night, on the stage at the Macdonough Theater, he conversed with a TRIBUNE reporter, and naturally the subject was the people in front of the stage from whose presence he had but a moment previously retired after having responded to a most demonstrative call before the curtain.

"What do I think of Oakland audiences?" he asked. "I would rather discuss the subject, what do they think of me? To people in my profession the great thing is, not what we think about those who come to see us, but what those to whom we play think about us. Several years have passed since I played in this theater in Oakland. Look at the size of the audience. That I take as a compliment, especially at a time when it may not exactly be said that the dramatic season has yet opened. I am gratified by the number of people in the house. I am especially delighted with the way in which my play, the company and myself have been received. Aside from the size of the audiences, the people in front are intelligent and close observers. They are following the play with keen interest. I know this because of the appreciation which I know they feel for a number of little touches of character peculiarity which I have introduced into the role and which are noticed by and appeal only to those who look for art in character delineation. An audience is like an individual on a large scale. It is made up of varying sentiments and emotions, and, like an individual, it can be in all moods and conditions. And then no two audiences are alike. This is an audience I like to play to. It appreciates the humor, the pathos and the passion of the play. In return, I appreciate the audience and am doing my best to entertain those in it. No, oh, no, I shall never be able justly to say that Oakland is a 'jay town.'

"It was on this stage that, five years ago, I produced this play for the first time. I have since changed it in some respects. I have cut out some of its lines, made it more compact and natural. I am pleased with it and so are the members of the company and the patrons.

"Yes, it is true that I supported Lillian Lamson, who formerly resided here, when she made her debut as an actress. It was in the old California Theater. That was twelve years ago, and it was then in Ward's company. I shall not forget the night. There was a large audience. The debutante acted well and was lavishly appreciated. She was a young woman of talent and promise. Her sister, Gertrude Lamson, was then at school. Gertrude is now known on the stage as Nance O'Neil. She has utilized her natural gifts of mind and conserved her energy, and is famous as an actress. As to why both sisters are not equally famous is not for me to say."

MY VIEWS ON MANY SUBJECTS

BY HENRY A. CHITTENDEN

The pardonable activity of some of our Democratic contemporaries in grooming Admiral George Dewey, manifestly against his will, as a Presidential candidate in 1900, however inconsequential it may come to be, is calculated in the present juncture to promote thought.

Conceiving the possibility of their making this sturdy, simple sailor walk the plank of political ambition, it is interesting to specify some of the results. The results, it seems to me, would be favorable to every interest—excepting that of Admiral George Dewey.

* * *

A Presidential campaign between William McKinley and George Dewey would constitute an absolute novelty in American politics. It would be a campaign without rancor, without any species of financial or commercial suspense or disturbance, I had almost said, a campaign without any politics in it. Incidentally, it would remove from the public grainfield that threatening brand, William Jennings Bryan. Farewell, forsooth, to all the menaces of the sixteen-to-one heresy, of undigested anti-trust philosophy and legislation, to proletariat attacks upon the existing era of prosperity and the public welfare.

* * *

No Democratic convention this side of Bedlam, or even there, would dare attempt to make George Dewey stand for any of these things. No, for once in their lives, American voters would have the inestimable, if puzzling, privilege of choosing between two candidates for the Presidency whose character and wisdom have been thoroughly tried and in whom all have confidence. Thus, contrary to our heretofore invariable experience, such a national campaign would proceed with orderliness, with good-humor, without detriment to business and industrial interests. So great an end is almost worth the sacrifice of Dewey, since sacrifice it would be of him, whether he won or not, of that peace of mind and of those serene ideals which we and he have liked to attribute to the simple-hearted American sailor.

Will Admiral Dewey consent to the sacrifice?

* * *

To my mind there is infinite pathos in the fact that the locomotive engineers of the Southern Pacific railroad system should have been goaded by a section of the newspaper press, that is obviously and notoriously animated by political aims or political resentments, into publishing a defense of themselves. No defense from attacks in this quarter was necessary, so far as the public is concerned. The quality and character and habits and efficiency of the Southern Pacific engineers, and of their associates in the handling of trains, are abreast of those of any railway system in the country and ahead of all systems save three or four of the foremost ones. Their splendid qualities are recognized far and wide by the travelling public and by their fellow citizens. Together with the other classes of artisans on the Pacific Coast—the men who built, and sailed the United States cruiser Oregon, for instance—these skilled toilers stand at the very head of their profession in the land. As President Jordan, of Stanford University, remarked, at the outset of our war with Spain, "This war is going to be decided by engineers, and we have the engineers."

It is a shame, therefore, that men of this calibre and standing should have been driven by the sneers and misrepresentations of an irresponsible press into issuing a manifesto on their own behalf to the public, and an exhortation to themselves to stand together for their own protection against the assaults of these newspapers upon those engineers who are overtaken by accidents. The fact that in almost every case of accident on this railroad it is the engineer alone who perishes in the wreck of his engine, his manful standing at his post being the salvation of his train, ought to make him and his class and his fellow workers the objects of the gratitude and tribute of the public and the press, instead of the targets for cheap and shallow, and too often of interested and malicious criticism.

* * *

Our locomotive engineers are the gallant and romantic knights and heroes of this modern time. I never pass one, alert, keen, great-brained, swarthy, stalwart in his cab, when setting forth upon a journey or when finishing it, without wanting to grasp his hand and take off my hat to him, for the quality and nature of his service to myself and to the community, and to pay my tribute of recognition to the quality of man that he is.

Let our jackals of politics find some other quarry than the railway engineers for the ammunition in which they deal.

* * *

I have noted with satisfaction the hospitable reception accorded by our home trading merchant advocates to the circular address and arguments presented to them by H. A. Kletzker, Vice-President of the Oakland Typographical Union, No. 36. The address is admirably put, and is preceded by this quotation from Shakespeare, "I'll give him reasons for it." I am proud of Mr. Kletzker, of the good cause in which he is engaged and of his excellent fashion in going about it. I am glad to recognize in him a fellow worker on the Oakland TRIBUNE.

* * *

This appeal of the Typographical Union to our merchants to prefer Union printing offices in the placing of their patronage is capable of a wider extension and doubtless was intended to receive it and will receive it. Our merchants who preach the gospel of Oakland people's advantage in trading in their own city, without always inquiring too closely about bargains and cut prices, certainly ought to be logically prepared to accept Mr. Kletzker's arguments as to their interest in having all classes of wage earners liberally paid. Good prices for good work and good goods is a twin motto that ought to be advanced and to prevail in double harness.

* * *

Mr. Walter L. Hackett, one of the students and literateurs of Oakland society, has justly acquired the reputation of being the most extravagant man in Oakland. He is a young man to have attained such distinction, but then he began early. When a boy, nearing his teens, as he was walking on the Twelfth street dam of Lake Merritt, he noticed that a barefooted little urchin who was fishing there had fallen into deep water at the drowning place most affected by Oakland small boys. Without a moment's hesitation, or waiting for any appeals from the struggling kid, young Hackett divested himself of a brand new, expensive Melton overcoat and threw it into the water after the gasping small boy.

When still younger and himself in the kilt period, which is the aristocratic equivalent for barefootedness, when visiting Mt. Shasta with his mother, observing that she was suffering from a headache, he went to the telegrap hoffice of the hotel and invested his entire worldly estate, the sum of twenty-five cents, in this dispatch to his father, Mr. Edward Hackett: "Mother is very sick indeed. Come up here at once." On "Captain Ned's" arrival at the hotel, his young hopeful explained that he had sent the dispatch just because he had twenty-five cents in his pocket and there wasn't anything else to do with it. The relieved father was so delighted to observe his son's accuracy in getting in the ten words and the full worth of his money that he patted him on the shoulder and endowed him with a $5 gold piece.

By the cabled announcement of its simultaneous publication in London and this country, the embargo of silence is raised from the publication which I have been reading and re-reading with interest for several weeks. It is a little volume of 129 pages, published in New York and London by Doubleday, McClure Co., excellently described by this title page. "The True Basis of Economics, or the Law of Independent and Collective Human Life, Being a Correspondence Between David Starr Jordan, President of the Leland Stanford Jr., University and Dr. J. H. Stallard, of Menlo Park, California, on the Merits of the Doctrine of Henry George."

Now I am not going to review this book nor criticise it, nor summarize it, nor reply to it. Such treatment is foreign to the purpose of these columns, and would overtax their space. I will merely talk a little about it, mentioning its unusual form and the equally unusual purpose which I conceive to be that inspiring its author, Dr. Stallard.

* * *

But, first, a word about Dr. Stallard himself. For many years he has been a widely known practicing physician in San Francisco, having distinguished patients, among whom was the late Senator Hearst. During later years he has retired from a portion of his large practice. In the early forties, in London, Dr. Stallard had charge of a large division of the Leicester Poor Law Union. In 1854, he became surgeon of the Leicester Militia and at the conclusion of the Crimean war was elected Physician to the St. George's Dispensary and Great Northern Hospital, London. As one of the Sanitary Commissioners of the Lancet, he took an active part in the reform of the Workhouse Hospitals, and in the improvement of the Poorlaw Medical service. As a commissioner of the Daily Standard, he made a complete report on the Poorlaw administration in the various London Unions. At that time, he wrote a book on Pauperism among London Jews and Christians inspired by his observation of the successful treatment of the Jewish poor. He became an active member of the Social Science Association, lectured on personal association as a means of social progress, and at the Society of Arts, on the relation between Health and Wages. He was elected a Guardian of the Holborn poor and subsequently a member of the Metropolitan Asylums Board. In conjunction with Cardinal Manning, Dean Stanley, Sir Charles Hastings, Mr. Bosanquet and others he was interested in the first Charity Organization of London, which was put in operation in Holborn under his personal superintendance. Subsequently he came to San Francisco to practice his profession. From this little sketch of his earlier philantropic work and studies, it will be seen what qualifications Dr. Stallard has for the place he has gained in this country as a leading thinker and publicist on economic questions.

* * *

This, then, is a double-barrelled treatise on the philosophy of the Single Tax. It is by two eminent gentlemen, each well known in his department of the professional world and to a wide circle of our people on the Pacific Coast. It gives both sides. It constitutes a sort of running colloquy by two bright minds and able talkers, looking from opposite points of view upon a topic which is more and more engaging the attention of thinking men.

The way in which this peculiar method of treatment of this subject came about, is thus described by Dr. Stallard, after his mentioning his request to President Jordan to give his opinion and comments on Henry George's letter to the Pope upon the conditions of living:

"Dr. Jordan promptly complied with my request, and in sending him my arguments in opposition to his views, I requested his permission to publish the correspondence, with such further comments as he might choose to make. Dr. Jordan's answer is characteristic of the wise, open-minded man he is: 'I have made many notes. Publish what seems to you not trifling or irrelevant and sign them (J.), and add as many more as you please and sign them (S.) The whole will be instructive and set folks thinking. That is all we college men are for.' 'That, too, is all Single Taxers are for, and it is for the public to determine what is right," adds Dr. Stallard.

* * *

I wish to join Dr. Stallard in expressing appreciation of the characteristic, wise and open-minded course of President Jordan in this matter. Indeed, he has given his friendly but zealous antagonist the inestimable advantage of having the last word in reply to every one of his arguments. This is an advantage of which Dr. Stallard, with the enthusiasm of his profound conviction, has not failed to take the full benefit. I am not sure but that the equities of discussion require that the generous Stanford University President shall now issue a little volume supplemental to this one in order to hold his own on one of the most important themes of the day.

All of these colloquial notes, springing from Dr. Stallard's main answer of some sixty pages, are presented in an appendix filling some sixty pages more of the volume.

I have said so much about the striking form of this little book as to leave little space for its substance. However I do not feel authorized to go deeply or extensively into the subject matter of the Single Tax in this column.

* * *

It only remains to say that Dr. J. H. Stallard in this book has been perhaps the first of all the disciples of Henry George among whom he is proud to rank himself, to undertake to remove the deductions of Henry George from the domain of ethics and place them upon a strictly scientific basis. Dr. Stallard accepts President Jordan's denial of what he calls Henry George's "assumption that certain forms of property relation have a divine or sacred right." He adopts and echoes Dr. Jordan's words, "There is no such thing as a 'right' except as we find experimentally that a certain line of action makes for more and better life among men." He promises faithfully to apply this definition to every conclusion that he draws. It will be for each reader to pronounce how well Dr. Stallard keeps this promise. I, as one reader, say that I think he keeps it quite successfully.

* * *

Dr. Stallard claims to have shown that "the law of independent and collective human life" is the "only complete and absolute basis of economics;" that it defines the origin of individual and collective wealth and determines the rights of its respective owners in its distribution; that human life, happiness and progress depend upon the complete and faithful observance of the "general law of independent and collective life;" that this law is violated by the enactments and practices of social agreement, which cannot be accepted as an authority for 'right.' In short Dr. Stallard affirms that by "ascertained sequences," or the scientific method for the ascertainment of truth, which is professedly followed in all colleges, and by all men of science, the tax of individual industry is a violation of the law of individual freedom. He claims to have in this discussion demonstrated that the tax on land value, which is created by the collected activities and necessities of the whole community, is the one source provided by the general law of economics, making for more and better life among men (Jordan) for the satisfaction of a common want, no one being called upon to suffer loss individually on account of public need—in other words, no one being taxed at all, except as the occupier of land. This is the essence of the Single Tax philosophy, which Dr. Stallard claims, with some show of reason, by this treatise and discussion, to have placed upon a scientific basis.

HENRY A. CHITTENDEN.

WHAT OUR PEOPLE THINK OF DEWEY

What do prominent Oakland men think of Admiral Dewey?

They will tell you.

WILLIAM R. DAVIS—Does a republic ever owe anything to anybody?

It does.

For instance?

Payment of its bonds held by its creditors.

Does it pay these obligations?

It always has, punctiliously.

Has this Republic any other obligations outstanding?

Several.

For instance?

To maintain its unity and integrity; to deliver law and order to those lately as well as to those long subject to its jurisdiction; to give every citizen a fair chance at happiness; to recognize the difference between service to self and service to country; to have concern for those who have concern for it.

How is a republic to reciprocate to those who render it good service?

By acting before they die.

Is a republic indebted to heirs whose ancestors have done good work?

A little—not too much; the heirs did not do it.

What should be done for the man who has risked everything for his country he is and has?

Something really good—good to him.

How good?

Good enough to show gratitude and teach the lesson of it.

How show it and teach it?

By doing the right thing for him while he stays here and in such a way that every individual in the Republic can see that he, not his remains, gets it.

Money?

Yes, enough to settle the bread-and-butter question, with plenty of preserves and coffee for breakfast, too, the same kind used in the morning aboard the ships of the Republic in Manila bay.

A home?

Best word in the dictionary. Let him have it, with everything in it that heart can wish—home, to infancy, the world; to youth, the great safety in the world; to manhood a fortress against the whole world; to old age, a shade against the heat, the shadow of a rock in the desert. As home is the foundation of the Republic, no testimonial of gratitude can rise higher than that itself as a testimonial.

GEORGE D. METCALF—The enthusiasm of our people and their pride in American genius and pluck find a fitting expression in the hearty and genuine welcome to our greatest naval hero, Admiral Dewey, at New York upon his home coming. Every American who believes in our national destiny as the leading force of civilization is proud of the fact that he lives at such a time when Dewey's guns put the United States in the van of world powers and world progress. The hour came, and with it the man, in the closing years of the century. In New York's reception there speak the commercial and business interests, and in the reception at Washington next week by our great statesmen and the high officials of government will be tendered for us all the national sentiment, a splendid tribute to the Nelson of our day, who is too wise and earnest a man to be lured by siren calls of despairing politicians to yield the place he now holds in the nation's heart, and the position which is the height of his professional ambition and career, a lasting fame, for any office under whatever name, which can of necessity add no laurels.

J. B. RICHARDSON—The demonstrations of popular favor taking place in New York these days, and especially today, of which Admiral Dewey is the inspiration make an excellent thermometer of the regard in which he is held by the American people. For this week, anyway, he is the foremost living American," and the feeling is very general that there is nothing too good for him.

If the feeling that Dewey would make a good President should assume the proportions that some of his enthusiastic admirers prophesy, it is to be hoped that the same modesty and good sense that characterize all that he has done and said since he has become prominent will induce him to say "No." Dewey is a specialist—an expert in his line—and unless he differs from most specialists there is abundant reason to believe that if he achieved success along other lines, for which his training and experience would unfit him, it would be only moderate, and would detract from the unique position which has come to him because of the promptness and precision and skill with which he executed the President's order to destroy the Spanish fleet. A naval position of an advisory character would seem to be a good rounding out of his career, and give him a better opportunity to benefit his fellow-citizens than if he were President.

D. EDWARD COLLINS—With all other American citizens I take pride in the achievements of Admiral Dewey and interest in the ceremonials in his honor. I will not go so far as to say that these demonstrations are, being over-done. They are natural, and it is like the American people to do such things, where their hearts and patriotism are touched, in a very hearty manner. At the same time I have no hesitation in saying that; from the man I conceive Admiral Dewey to be, he would prefer a much simpler demonstration. He is a simple, sensible, modest sailor, and I presume he would have chosen a far quieter reception, one more in keeping with those which Grant insisted on upon his trip around the world, and one more in deference to his individual tastes and habits and rights.

VOL. LII. OAKLAND, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 30, 1899. NO. 79

IN WORLD OF MUSIC.

Robert Clarence Newell Will Give a Recital-- Orpheus Club.

A large and fashionable audience assembled at the Unitarian Church last Tuesday evening to hear the Oakland Orpheus give their second concert of this, their sixth series, under the baton of Mr. Robert Clarence Newell, their very able and efficient conductor. The concert was a success. The club was assisted by Miss Jean Mary Hush, violinist, Miss Alma Berglund, soprano, and Miss Florence Beall Hush and Miss Esta Marvin, accompanist. The program in detail is as follows:

PART FIRST.

Glory ..... Roeckel-Smith
Orpheus.
Polonaise (Mignon) ....Amboroise Thomas
Miss Alma Berglund.
(a) "Far Away" .....E. S. Engelsberg
(b) "Go, Lovely Rose .....Peter C. Allen
Club.
"Rondo Capricciose ..... Saint Saens
Miss Jean Mary Hush and Miss Florence Hush.
"The Fir Tree and the Palm"..Sokolow
Club.

PART SECOND.

Heinz Von Stein .....A. W. Thayer
Club.
(a) "My Laddie" .....Noldlinger
(b) "The Rosary" ..... Nevin
(c) "The Bell" ..... MacDowell
Miss Berglund.
"Romance" ..... Mrs. H. H. A. Beach
Miss Hush.
Turkish Drinking Song.....Mendelssohn
Club.

The work of the club was uniformly excellent and was most warmly appreciated by the audience. Judging as well as is possible, when not listening from the Auditorium, the main fault of the club's work was in a superabundance of first tenor. The music was of an entirely new order and possessed a spice of novelty which kept the audience on the qui vive and the club on its mettle. One of the choruses most admired was P. C. Allen's "Go, Lovely Rose," which must have been all the composer could have asked, with the splendid interpretation infused into it by Mr. Newell's musicianly magnetism. A beautiful number, full of possibilities in the way of tone-color and expression, was "The Fir-tree and The Palm," by N. Sokolow. It was beautifully rendered, and the only criticism is that which should be perpetually hurled at every amateur organization of singers, i. e., "Watch the baton." "Heinz Von Stella," by Thayer, won for itself a most insistent encore which was responded to by a repetition of the last page of the chorus. Perhaps the club has its faults, but show me a like organization, under a new conductor, for the second concert only, that will acquit itself with such credit as did the Oakland Orpheus last Tuesday evening. The work showed for itself the kind of faithful, intelligent material of which the club is composed, from the president to the "high private in the rear rank," for only the truest faithfulness to the cause of music in the way of attendance at rehearsals and loyalty to their leader can produce such results. There are always two or three who think they know it all and come straggling in at the last rehearsal, and do all they can to spoil the work of many weeks' hard rehearsal of most difficult music. It is to be hoped that Mr. Newell will firmly put his foot down on this pernicious habit, and let the credit lie where it belongs. Miss Alma Berglund sang with most excellent style and interpretation and gained an enthusiastic encore to her first number, Ambroise Thomas' "Polonaise." Her staccato work was fine and the beautiful high notes in her exceedingly pure voice showed to splendid advantage. Her encore was most daintily rendered and completely captivated the audience. Of the group of songs, "My Laddie" was perhaps the best suited to Miss Berglund's manner of interpretation, for while "The Rosary" was sung most beautifully, it lacked somewhat in depth and could only be called "beautiful."

Miss Berglund's fine legato work would betray her anywhere as the pupil of Mr. Francis Stuart, and one of whom any teacher might be proud. Her enunciation is perfect, and there is a splendid command of tone-color.

Miss Jean Mary Hush was particularly happy in her selections, and the manner in which they were rendered showed plainly that Miss Hush is exceedingly talented, and is possessed of fine technique and much musical intelligence. Her rendition of Sain-Saen's magnificent work, was fine and showed splendid temperament, but would have been much enhanced had there been less accompaniment. Miss Hush won a most hearty encore, but did not respond.

The work of Miss Esta Marvin as the club's accompanist is rapidly winning for her a prominent place among the few good accompanists. Her work is always performed so well and satisfactory, and with such unassuming modesty, that one feels sure of absolute level-headed reliability and faultless musical instinct, and that there can be no failure from that source.

Miss Florence Beall Hush accompanied Miss Jean Hush in her violin numbers.

Mr. Robert Clarence Newell will give a piano recital at the Unitarian Church Wednesday evening, October 4th, assisted by Edwin Dunbar Crandall, tenor; William Leimert, cellist, and Miss Elsa von Mandersellied, accompanist. The following rare program will be presented:

Sonata Tragica, Opus 45 .....MacDowell
(Three Movements.)
(a) "Griselidis," arranged from an old French melody by .....A. L.
(b) "In Sylvian Shade" .....F. C. Allen
(c) "Sweet Wind That Blows" ..Chadwick
Mr. Crandall.
Prelude, G major.....
Prelude, B minor..... Chopin
.....
"Berceuse" .....
"Scherzo, from Opus 35.....
Mr. Newell.
(b) Musette.....Offenbach
(Seventeenth Century Style.)
Mr. Leimert.
Prelude .....
Intermezzo .....Schutt
Epilogue .....
Spinning song.....Pachulski
Etude, Op. 8, No. 5.....Scriabine
Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 11.....Liszt
Mr. Newell.

Mr. Newell deserves much credit for the steadfastness with which he clings to modern music of the highest order. There is, by far, too much of the old masters and too little encouragement of the new, and it will be a choice treat to listen to a program which contains selections by seven of our best and most modern writers.

Mr. William Leimert is a most promising cellist and a talented pupil of Arthur Weiss, and will be heard with great interest.

Mr. Crandall's work is too well known in Oakland to need any additional comment in these columns.

Mr. Newell has not asked his friends to sell tickets for him, and presents his program on its merits, and he should have a full house. If all musicians were as true to their art as Mr. Newell is, we should have less trash to digest.

* * *

There are to be some interesting musical events under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. this season for the benefit and edification of its members and their friends. The first and most important of these will be the opening concert by the Stewart Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Alex. T. Stewart, presenting a program of new and popular orchestral selections, vocal and instrumental solos by the leading musical talent of the city. Mrs. Carrie Fross-Snyder will give a dramatic recital Friday evening, November 3d, assisted by Miss Margaret Gray, soprano; Miss Gertrude Hibbard, violinist; Miss Grace Winter, contralto; Miss Blanche Hostetter, accompanist, and a string quartette; Mrs. Martin Schultz will sing Friday evening, December 1st; the Knickerbocker Male Quartette of San Francisco assisted by Miss Nellie E. Shipley pianist and cornetist; Miss Xona Roberts, contralto, and Mrs. Susie Hertmark, soprano, will give a concert Monday evening, January 1st, and the Misses Sherwood, assisted by prominent talent, will close the series on Friday evening, February 16th.

* * *

The program for the service at St. Paul's Episcopal Church tomorrow evening will be particularly fine, and will be as follows:

Prelude, Fugue A.....Adolph Hesse
Magnificat in F.....Stainer
Nunc Dimittis in F.....Stainer
Anthem, "They That Dwell in the.... Land." .....Stainer
Offertory, "Come Unto Me."..... Hawley
Mary Chester Williams.
Salve Regina .....Buck
Miss Gretchen Bernett.
Duet, "Crucifix," (tenor and baritone) ..... Faure
Mr. E. D. Crandall, Mr. Otto Wedemeyer.
Chorus a Capella, "Ave Verum"..Gounod
Postlude in F minor.....Hesse
Robert Clarence Nowell, Director.

* * *

At the Tivoli "Othello" is still drawing packed houses and brings forth all praise for the accommodating management which has allowed us another week of this masterpiece. With Salassa as Iago and Lichter as Desdemona and Avedano in the title role, the whole performance is immense. One could wish for Barron Berthald, perhaps, but we can't have everything, and Avidano's magnificent voice seems to win much credit. The hit of the piece is, however, the great duett between Avedano and Salassa, which invariably brings the house down. We will wait many days before we find another such an artist as Salassa, or such an actor.

* * *

The recital by the pupils of Miss Elizabeth Westgate, Mr. Alex. T. Stewart and Edwin Dunbar Crandall, took place in Alameda last night. It was a program to be remembered as remarkable, in that such a select class of students could be gotten together and render such a program as was presented in a community of this size. A detailed account of this recital will appear later.

* * *

Miss Maud des Rochers will give her concert on October 17th, and is already selling tickets. A most enjoyable program is to be presented, and Miss des Rochers anticipates a large audience. The assisting talent will be Miss L. Florence Heine, Miss Marie Heine, Mrs. J. E. Birmingham and others.

* * *

The song recital by Mr. Hermann Gouss, in San Francisco, last Thursday evening, was a disappointment to those who went over from Oakland. Mr. Guess has mistaken his vocation when he tries to give such an affair before San Francisco's critical audiences. Let us seek consolation in the hope that most of us went to hear Miss Margaret Bruntsch, whose work was very acceptable, and who with a little more study will be sure to gain fame for such a beautiful voice as she possesses.

* * *

At last Sunday's vesper services at the Unitarian Church, Alameda, Mr. Winfred Goff, baritone, of the Grand Opera House Company, was heard in two selections, "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," Gounod; and "Come Unto Me," by Coenen. Mr. Goff has a beautiful, full, rich, baritone voice, full of sympathetic timbre and a very artistic temperament. He sings with great ease and finish, and is truly an artist. Mr. Samuel Adelstein played two solos on his beautiful Italian lute. Mr. Adelstein gets splendid music from this instrument, which fact places him in the front rank of musicians, inasmuch as it requires a thorough musician to get any music whatever from it. Miss Westgate's work at the organ was very good indeed, and is always in the most direct sympathy with the soloists. Her rendition of the "Triumphal March," from "Aida," was great. The program for tomorrow's service will include the Stewart String Quartette and Mrs. Carrie Brown-Dexter, soprano.

* * *

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Mr. Putnam Griswold will give a concert in San Leandro.

* * *

The committee in charge of Alfred Wilkie's benefit are completing their plans, which will be announced next week.

William B. King will resume his position as organist at the First Congregational Church of this city tomorrow morning.

* * *

Next Friday evening, October 6th, a concert will be given at the Centennial Presbyterian Church, Twenty-fourth avenue, East Oakland, which promises to be one of the best ever given in that section of the city. The talent includes Miss Maud Goodwin, one of the leading sopranos of Victoria, B. C., now in San Francisco; Miss Alice Chipman, daughter of General Chipman of San Francisco, violinist; Miss Edith R. Feinberg, also of San Francisco, pianist; August Kempkey, cornetist; Bert Georges, baritone; Professor Charles F. Graeber and club, banjo, mandolin, and guitar, and other musicians equally skilled.

Miss Jean Mary Hush, Miss Florence Beall Hush and Miss Lippit, soprano, presented a program to the Century Club of San Francisco last Wednesday, and, from all reports, won for themselves many new laurels in the field of art. Miss Jean Hush included among her numbers the "Rondo Capriciosa," by Saint-Seans, and the "Grieg" sonata. Miss Hush won many plaudits for her rendition of the Saint-Seans number, which was far superior to its presentation the night before at the Orpheus concert; having the advantage of a less noisy accompaniment. Miss Florence Hush played three piano solos, including a "Ballad" by Chopin and an "Etude" by Lambert. Miss Hush is a pupil of the latter composer, and one of whom he may be very proud. Miss Hush's playing is full of sympathetic tone and fine technique. The selections by Miss Lippit were rendered most acceptably.

Mrs. Lena Carroll Nicholson has been suffering from a most severe cold for the past two weeks, but is now convalescing.

Dr. W. K. Scott, of Alameda, and Mrs. Carrie Brown-Dexter will be the soloists at the opening Y. M. C. A. concert.

The usual foreign notes will appear in next week's issue.

PUTNAM GRISWOLD.

WHAT THE SINGLE TAXERS HAVE TO SAY.

Edited by EDGAR POMEROY.

The Socialist Labor Party gathered in great force in Union Square Hall, San Francisco, on Sunday evening. Mr. G. B. Benham was scheduled to meet Mr. A. J. Gregg, of the Alameda County Single Tax Society in a battle royal anent the sixth resolution in the published challenge of the single taxers. Through some misunderstanding Mr. Gregg failed to show up, and rather than allow the debate to go to the Socialists by default Edgar Pomeroy, who was in the audience, took up the gauntlet. The battle raged for one hour and forty minutes, and the audience seemed to thoroughly enjoy it. The utmost good feeling existed all through.

Mr. Benham has promised to speak to the Single Tax Society some time soon.

R. S. Gray lectured in the Y. M. C. A. on Tuesday evening on "Corporate Property." Mr. Gray handled the subject so thoroughly and in so interesting a manner as to compel not only the closest attention, but also to create great enthusiasm. The members of the Single Tax Society were particularly warm in praise of the address albeit Mr. Gray has never confessed himself a single-taxer. His division of law and equity were splendidly eloquent.

Rev. Guy Smith, who is a pretty regular attendant at the single-tax meetings, is to take charge of the class in Social Economics for the winter in the Y. M. C. A. Students who study under Mr. Smith will have to be very dull indeed to fail in getting knowledge. We prophecy that many young men will learn more of the reason for things in this world than their fathers ever forgot.

Even the Pastors' League of the First Presbyterian Church had a lecture on Economics on Tuesday evening. The great question "Why?" is everywhere being asked.

Rev. J. K. Knodell will lecture on October 10th. The society will probably depart from their usual custom of making the lecture free for all by making this particular affair invitational. It is desired to have the most representative men in Oakland present.

John Aubrey Jones will speak from the City Hall steps this evening. Bravo! Jones, that's the kind of work the Single Tax Society should be doing. We like your pluck and we know your sincerity.

AN EXAMPLE.

Suppose we represent the world by a huge pie, and suppose we say to everyone, "the government will not interfere any of you in your getting of pie, but with one of you in your getting of pie, but will protect you in that right, a right you all have equally." Then suppose that one man is so located on a high piece of ground that he can reach over and cut and secure twice as much pie as any one else with the same exertion. If the equal rights of all are to be preserved, how is it to be done? Manifestly by dividing up between all, the better located one included, the extra pie his locality enables him to get. Well that is the single-tax theory. But the government established to protect all in equal right to the pie must be paid in cut-pie product. Then the extra pie must go to the government. Still all have equal rights and all who work equally hard and intelligently at cutting pie get an equal share.

Do you see the cat?

British statistics show that in the year 1898 the foreign bounties paid on sugar imported into the United Kingdom amounted to about $13,500,000. Commenting upon this showing, a Cobden Club leaflet, written by Harold Cox, correctly speaks of that sum as representing "a free gift by foreign countries to the people of Great Britain and Ireland." Pursuing the thought, Mr. Cox asks:

"Why should we refuse it? We are told that the bounties paid by foreign countries are ruining British refineries. It is more than doubtful whether that statement is true. The most important of British refiners is known to be a millionaire, while another great refiner who recently died left a large fortune behind him. What is not doubtful is this: That owing to the good quality and low price of foreign bounty-fed sugar the British confectionary industry has grown with astonishing rapidity, and is now worth far more to the nation than the refining industry ever was. Would it not be madness to handicap an industry employing, according to the census of 1891, 55,079 persons, for the sake of an industry employing only 4,920 persons? Doubtless it is very stupid of foreign nations to spend their money in providing us with cheap sugar: but that is their business, not ours. It has been reckoned that every housewife in Germany pays a half-penny a pound more for her sugar in order that the English housewife may buy sugar a half-penny a pound cheaper. Why should we grumble if the Germans choose to continue the folly?"

THE PUBLIC CRIB.

A mass meeting in the big church edifice was recently held by Los Angeles citizens for the purpose of considering reforms in municipal government. According to newspaper reports of the meeting no action was taken in any practical direction, nor was a single fact brought to light which was not generally known by everybody in the audience and nearly everybody outside of it. For example, Mr. T. W. Brotherton announced the following stereotyped truth:

"This city is supporting more men from the public crib than there is any use for."

It is possible that Brother Brotherton thought he was telling the audience some news? Every voter in the city, however ignorant and stupid otherwise, must know that the public crib is the goal toward which the longing eyes of several thousand hungry politicians are constantly turned, and that a majority of the ballot-wielders at every election foolishly vote, indirectly but surely, in favor of perpetuating the crib and allowing it to swarm with greedy cormorants. The same is undoubtedly true of nearly or quite every other city in the United States. The average municipal government is not exactly an expensive luxury; it is an expensive burden. But voters and taxpayers generally seem to like burdens. Otherwise they would not take pains to create them and then stand still while cunning politicians place those burdens on their shoulders.

A model civil government will be visible when there is one that has no needless officials, levies no unjust taxes, and gets all public revenue from land values irrespective of improvements.

BRIGHT SCHOLARS AT WEST OAKLAND.

Yesterday afternoon the brightest boys of Father McNally's school, taught by the Christian Brothers, received testimonials of merit for gentlemanly deportment, regular attendance and application to study during the month of September. These merit cards are awarded to pupils who have attained an average of at least 75 per cent during each month. The Brothers are anxious that parents examine their child's report each month and do all in their power to co-operate with the teacher to promote regularity of attendance and application to study. Ninety-five to 100 per cent denotes excellent; 85 to 95 per cent, very good; 75 to 85 per cent, good, and below 75 per cent, unsatisfactory.

STENOGRAPHER AND THE COUNTY EXPERT.

Editor TRIBUNE—According to the Penal Code, the Coroner is compelled to reduce to writing and file with the County Clerk the testimony of all the witnesses appearing at an inquest. That portion of the Statutes of 1893, relating to the Coroner, reads that he may subpoena a chemist or physician to make a chemical analysis of the stomach or examine the tissues of the body; also that he may employ a stenographer to take down the testimony of the witness.

Now it over that one word, witness, that all the trouble has ever occurred over the Coroner's stenographic bills. From December, 1895, to July, 1897, Mr. Snook, who was then District Attorney, interpreted that to mean that the stenographer could be paid for the testimony of the expert witness only, which in effect amounted to saying that although by the Penal Code the Coroner was compelled to have reduced to writing and filed with the County Clerk all of the testimony taken, the stenographer could only receive pay for transcribing the testimony of the expert witness, and that he could not receive pay for any inquest he reported unless there appeared among the witnesses a physician or chemist. In view of the suit which was brought against the Board of Supervisors of Sacramento county by the Coroner's stenographer, and which Board, on the advice of their expert, refused to pay the bills of the Coroner's stenographer, it is still a question whether Mr. Snook was right in the ground he took in his decision here. While I was stenographer for the Coroner, from December, 1895, to July, 1897, I reported every inquest, but received pay for only those inquests in which there appeared among the witnesses a physician or chemist, and even then I received pay, under Mr. Snook's ruling, for transcribing the testimony of the expert witness only.

I transcribed all the rest of the testimony, for which I received no pay, and paid for the transcription of the same out of my own pocket. In 1897 the Legislature amended the law so that the Coroner could have a stenographer only on the written order of the District Attorney. Mr. Snook, who was then District Attorney, interpreted that to mean that that should apply only in cases where there was a possibility of a crime being committed. I reported every inquest as before, but was paid for only those for which I received a written order from the District Attorney, and for which, according to the written opinion of the District Attorney, rendered to the then expert, Mr. Davis, I had a right to receive pay. As I said before, I reported every inquest, and have reported as many as eleven and twelve in one month, for which I received no pay, and transcribed all of the testimony of the same, for which I paid my typewriter five cents per folio out of my own pocket. There is not a single dollar that I have received for taking and transcribing the testimony of any inquest for which there is not attached to my bill a written order from the District Attorney so to do. As I said before, the Board of Supervisors of Sacramento county, on the advice of their expert, refused to pay the Coroner's stenographer, Mr. E. C. Johnson, for taking and transcribing the testimony of Coroner's inquest on the same ground that Mr. Bullock, our County Expert, now takes.

Mr. Johnson brought suit against the Board of Supervisors in the Superior Court of Sacramento county to recover the amount of his bill, and won the suit, recovering his money on the ground that as the Codes distinctly say that singular includes plural, masculine includes feminine, etc., that the word witness was meant to mean witnesses, and that it was not intended by the law to mean that the stenographer who, if he received an order to report an inquest, was compelled by the Penal Code to take down and transcribe the testimony of all the witnesses, should receive pay but for one. It is my opinion, in view of the outcome of the Sacramento suit above referred to, that, were it not for the fact that I am barred by the statute of limitations from now bringing suit against the Board of Supervisors, I could recover from the county pay for taking and transcribing the testimony taken at inquests from December, 1895, to July, 1897, of all the witnesses outside of the expert, chemist or physician.

NUMBERING HOUSES IN ANNEXED DISTRICT

Superintendent of Streets Miller announces that he will suggest a change to the Council in the matter of the numbering of the streets in the annexed district north of Fifty-first street, so far as Broadway is concerned. His original intention was to have Fifty-first street be the initial point for the numbering of all the territory northerly including Broadway, the numbers at the intersection there beginning again at No. 1. Residents of Broadway, however, objected because that thoroughfare extends only four blocks beyond Fifty-first street before it strikes the charter line of Berkeley. To duplicate house numbers on the thoroughfare, it was thought, would be objectionable, hence the change. Fifty-first street, however, will be the initial point of numbering for Claremont avenue and the territory easterly, the streets of which do not connect directly with those leading from the city.

TROUBLE OVER A TRUST ESTATE.

Kiamesia Venchierutti and H. H. Lawrence, who are defendants in an action brought by Mary J. Burton to foreclose a mortgage on property owned by the heirs of L. A. Birdsall, deceased, have filed answers to the complaint.

According to the will of Birdsall his estate, consisting of valuable real estate in this city and a farm in Napa Valley, was bequeathed to H. H. Lawrence and Lloyd Tevis to be held in trust for his daughter, Kiamesia Venchariutti and his three grandchildren, Nina, Lewis and Mary Venchiarutti. The will was drawn in 1884, two years prior to the death of Birdsall. Tevis declined to act as trustee and executor and the duty fell upon Lawrence. In an action brought by the heirs to depose him, Lawrence won out and has since been holding the property in trust for the heirs. His answer states that he has no knowledge of a mortgage held by Mary Burton, but alleges that he is owner in trust of the property.

The answer of Kiamesia Venchiarutti denies the mortgage, and further states that she did not have the power to execute the mortgage inasmuch as the property was held by Lawrence in trust.

NOT AFRAID OF WATER.

If the inhabitants of Hawaii, and, indeed, of the islands of the Pacific generally, are not clean, it is certainly not because they do not bathe. They are really the most amphibious people one can well imagine. Often they have several baths in one day, and everybody bathes at least once in the twenty-four hours and has a good scrubbing into the bargain with the best material that they have for the purpose.

A dip in the "briny" is nowhere considered sufficient for cleanliness, and among the Polynesians one can hardly insult a man more than to state that his skin shows marks of salt water. In fact, directly after bathing in the sea, a bath in fresh water is considered a necessity to wash off the salt. If possible, villages are built within convenient distance of a river, or a large pond or lake is made by damming up a streamlet or two.

In this place mixed bathing is enjoyed by the villagers, who use for soap the large green oranges which grow about the pool. This fruit is too bitter for eating, but when the pulp is rubbed on the skins of the natives, which are always greasy with cocoanut oil, it makes a real soap and lathers nicely.

Scrubbing brushes are also provided by Dame Nature. A segment is torn form the husk of a cocoanut and the fibers thus exposed serve the purpose of the bristles of a manufactured brush. The bather makes good use of the soap and brushes thus provided, and when he has finished his ablutions he sits in the wind to dry. Bathing is a curiously solemn ceremony, and during the process of drying no one thinks of talking more than necessary, while running about to expedite matters would be considered a great breach of decorum.

When the skin is sufficiently dry, a coating of cocoanut oil is rubbed in briskly. Then the bather winds a strip of cloth or gaudy print round the waist in the approved native style and the ceremony is at an end.

HAWES STRIKES AT BAUERLE AGAIN.

Public Administrator B. C. Hawes has filed two amended complaints in his actions against Adolph H. Bauerle to recover property alleged to have been extorted by the defendant from his mother through threats. The property consists of two pieces of real estate, one on the county road valued at $6,000 and the other on Grant avenue near Telegraph avenue valued at $4,000.

The Public Administrator alleges that Bauerle forced his mother to convey those pieces of property to him prior to her death by threats to make public certain actions of his mother, and that the other children, Louise Fromm and Annie Silva, were defrauded from their inheritances. The will of Mrs. Bauerle is being contested on the same grounds. Louise Fromm is also contesting the will.

WEIGHING MAILS AT POST OFFICE.

On Tuesday next the weighing of the mails of this city for the information of the department at Washington will begin under the supervision of Postmaster Friend. The weighing will continue for thirty-five days. It will begin on the morning of the date first mentioned and continue until midnight of November 6th of this year.

EXTINGUISHED.

A young and newly married couple were entertaining their friends, and among the guests was one whose continued rudeness made him extremely objectionable to the rest of the company. His conduct, although most unbearable, was put up with for some time, until at supper he held up on his fork a piece of meat which had been served to him, and in a vein of intended humor, he looked around and remarked:

"Is this pig?"

This immediately drew forth the remark from a quiet looking individual sitting at the other end of the table:

"Which end of the fork do you refer to?"—London Spare Moments.

NEWS OF MIMIC WORLD

"The Three Musketeers" at Dewey Next Week-- Modjeska Coming

When "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" will have been called from the boards at the Dewey at the close of this evening's performance, and assigned to the play book, then a play of the Louis XIII period will be brought forward and produced for the week beginning Monday evening, with all the perfectness of that era, in point of stage settings, costuming and delineation on the part of the players selected from members of the Grand Stock Company.

The title of the next piece is "The Three Musketeers," the famous dramatization of Alexander Dumas great novel by the late Frank Mayo. The play is intense in its story of romance. The court of Louis XIII, under the ministry of Cardinal Richelieu, gives scope for a very powerful augmentation of the doings of the people of that period. The life of D'Artagnan the Gascon, who from the time of his arrival in Paris, with only his letter to the Captain of the King's Guards and his trusty sword to help him, fights his way to the fore, proving himself to be one of the bravest and proudest of the King's Royal Guards; his combined recklessness and diplomacy in recovering the diamonds of Anne of Austria, wife of King Louis, from the Duke of Buckingham, thus thwarting the subtle, crafty, powerful master of France, Cardinal Richelieu; his overcoming of all his spies and outwitting even the shrewd Lady Whimler, all united in making the history of the "Three Musketeers," a theme for a great dramatic story.

Lander Stevens will assume the role formerly played by the late Frank Mayo, that of D'Artagnan. In presenting this production it is promised by the Dewey management that it will be magnificently mounted with complete new settings and correct costumes. Mr. Stevens has omitted neither pains or expense to make this production worthy of the greatness of this masterpiece of romantic drama.

THE MODJESKA SEASON.

Modjeska will appear at the Macdonough in a three-nights' engagement, beginning October 9th. The local management has the option of selecting from Modjeska's repertoire the plays to be given in Oakland. The patrons of the Macdonough have therefore been invited to send in their choice of plays by mail, and on the arrival of the advance agent the plays that have received the majority of the votes will be announced. "Marie Antoinette," "Macbeth," Much Ado About Nothing," "The Ladies' Battle" and "Mary Stuart are some of the plays in Modjeska's varied repertoire.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"The Drum Majors Daughter," in its second week, continues to pack the Grand Opera House nightly. It is undoubtedly a fascinating and beautiful production and has caught a firm hold of the town. The last performance of it will take place Sunday evening. Monday evening "Planquette's very delightful comic opera "Rip Van Winkle" will be produced on a splendid scale with William Wolff as the bibulous Dutchman Rip, a role for which he possesses all the requisites. He has met with great success in it in the East, and now that Jos. Jefferson has retired from the stage, is the best actor exponent of the character that this country has. The forthcoming revival will be by far the best San Francisco has had, inasmuch as we have never heretofore had a really good singer in the character, which Mr. Wolff certainly is. Edith Mason will appear both as Rip's wife and daughter, and the remainder of the cast will be as follows: Nick and Jan Vedder, Arthur Wooley; Derrick Von Beckman and Hendrick Hudson, Winfred Coff; Peter Stein, Nance Bonville; Captain Ponsonby, Hattie Belle Ladd; Katrina, Bessie Fairbairn; Little Meenie, Gladys Miller; Little Hans and the goblin dwarf, Jack Robertson; First Lieutenant to Hudson and Lieutenant Von Beekman, Thomas H. Persse; Second Lieutenants, Arthur Wooley, Gustave Rowley, A. E. Arnold. Incidental to the opera will be a girl's wooden shoe dance. Frank King has expended much time and trouble on the scenery, and has produced a picturesque view of the village of Sleepy Hollow, and a weird one of the Catskill Mountains. The costumes have been specially prepared for the occasion, and one of the best performances of the season can be relied upon.

THE TIVOLI.

Flotow's charming romantic opera, "Martha," has alternated at the Tivoli this week with "Othello," and has proved a strong attraction. "Othello," which is in its third week, has been the success of the grand opera season. The intrinsic beauty of Verdi's marvelous music added to the superb work of Salassa, Avedano and Anna Lichter has carried the Tivoli patrons by storm. The management, however, appreciating the spicy flavor of variety, has arranged a bill for next week that is bound to suit all music lovers. Three nights of the week will be devoted to a grand revival of that comic opera masterpiece, "The Mikado," with the Tivoli's new comedian, Alf Wheelan, as Kako. "Aida," "Cavaleri Rusticana" and "I'Pagliacci" (double bill) and "Carmen" will alternate.

THE ALCAZAR.

"The Idler" has done a big business at the Alcazar this week, and has proved one of the most enjoyable plays ever seen in San Francisco. Eugene Ormonde and Gertrude Foster are doing splendid work, and the rest of the cast is in excellent hands. The patrons of this popular playhouse expect a dramatic treat when they go to the Alcazar, and the management makes it a point to see they are not disappointed. Next week, Roland Reed's "Innocent as a Lamb" will be the bill.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Olga Nethersole sailed from England for New York today.

Isabelle Evesson will play Lady Sibyl in "The Sorrows of a Satan" and probably will be seen later in a New York production.

Cissie Loftus signed last week to play Roxane in Richard Mansfield's production of "Cyrano de Bergerac."

Grace Golden arrived from Europe September 18th, on the Mohawk. She comes to fill an engagement with the Castle Square Opera company, and will appear for the first time on October 9th, as Juliet.

Mr. and Mrs. James K. Hackett (May Mannering) were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred I. Dupont, near Wilmington, Del. Mrs. Hackett astonished the natives by her skill in shooting the elusive reedbird.

William O. Hazeltine returned to New York recently from a long summer outing at Brielle, N. J. He has been engaged by Jacob Litt to play Morris Longman, the part in "The Great Ruby" that he originated and played with success last season at Daly's Theater.

Helen Merrill, whose singing has charmed music lovers on both sides of the bay, has made a pronounced hit with "A Stranger in New York" in Sydney. Miss Merrill left here about six months ago and has since been touring Australia with the Hoyt & McKee Company. Her many friends will be surprised to hear that she is soon to go to New York and later to Europe to complete her study of music.

Clara Morris will soon publish a new volume of short stories for children, entitled "My Little Jim Crow."

Emil Paur arrived in New York last week, after spending the summer in Europe. He will conduct the Wagner operas for the Maurice Grau Opera company.

Edgar L. Davenport has made a distinct success in Chicago as Drake in "The Christian" with Viola Allen.

Clyde Fitch returned to New York recently after summering in Europe. He will watch Julia Marlowe's rehearsals of his new play, "Barbara Frietchie."

Marcella Sembrich arrived from Europe last week. After appearing at the Worcester and Maine musical festivals she will join the Maurice Grau Opera company.

Elizabeth Tyree is ill in New York, and her place with the Lyceum Theatre Stock company has been taken by Olive May.

Robert Drouet has made in Chicago a most distinguished personal success as John Storm in "The Christian."

Joseph Herbert's comic opera, "The Prince of Borneo," is to be produced at the Strand Theater, London.

Richard Mansfield's tour will open on October 2d in Boston, instead of Chicago, as had been announced.

Mrs. Langtry will make an American tour this season, opening on January 15th, at the Garden Theater, in "The Degenerates."

Frank Daniels will begin his season at the Lyceum Theater, Scranton, Pa., October 9th. The occasion will be marked by the first performance of "The Ameer," the new comic opera composed by Victor Herbert, and written by Fred M. Rankken and Kirk La Shelle.

A "High-Toned Burglar" is being rehearsed and staged under direction of William Lytell.

Daniel Sully's season has opened well. The "Parish Priest," by Daniel L. Hart, will be produced in January.

The title of May Irwin's new comedy, "Sister Mary," is not a new one. A play with the same name, by Wilson Barrett and Clement Scott, was produced at the American Theater on May 15th, 1894, with Julia Arthur and Leonard Boyne in the leading roles.

The Manhattan Stock Company, playing through the Southwest, is pirating "The Middleman," under the title of "The Old Inventor."

Frank O. Weed and Vera C. Hamilton were married in Chicago, Ill., on August 23d.

The Hart Comedy Company, featuring Alma J. Hart, opened their second season successfully at Greensburg, Ind. Grace Lockwood, in leading roles, was most favorably received.

C. Jay Smith and Sadie Stockton were married at St. Joseph, Mich., on July 29th.

The J. C. Lewis "Si Plunkard" company opened their twelfth season on August 31st at Mt. Clemens, Mich. The play has been rewritten by Fred Gibbs, and a strong cast has been secured with specialties by J. C. Lewis, Lotta Gladstone, Nelsonia, William Milliken, M. C. Lawrence, F. F. Farrell and the Coffeys.

Hattie Bernard Chase is reported to be dangerously ill with yellow fever at Key West, where she went as a member of the Lyric Stock Company. The organization reached New York ten days ago and proceeded to North Adams, Mass., to begin the season on September 18th. Cora Reynolds takes the place left vacant by Miss Chase.

THE CRITIC.

LOSS OF JEWELS.

More than $20,000,000 worth of jewels are lost every season at American summer resorts. The greater part of these disappear at the seaside, and it is believed that a comparatively small part are actually stolen. At various summer resort hotels at this time every bulletin board will be profusely placarded with notices offering all sorts of rewards for the finding or return of missing jewels.

Last year the loss of jewels frequently amounted to $10,000 in a single instance. At some of the most fashionable resorts, such as Newport or Bar Harbor, the owners of very costly jewels frequently take the precaution of leaving the gems in some safe deposit vault in the city and sending all the way to town for them every time they are needed. That so much jewelry is lost each summer is due to the foolish display which is made of such valuables on hotel piazzas, the sands and even in the ocean itself.

The bathers at the fashionable resorts sometimes indulge in the caprice of appearing in the water wearing several thousand dollars' worth of diamonds. The chances of losing these trinkets while exercising or lying about on the beach is very great. The loss of jewelry in this way is constantly causing much unjust suspicion.

THEO. GIER'S SAUTERNE
is produced from vines that were imported from the Sauterne District of France in 1884. No foreign white wine can compare with it, being mellow, rich in flavor and lacking the acidity so common in most dry wines. No matter how long in bottle it is absolutely clear. It is remarkably cheap for its type of wine.

One Girl Who Was Saved

Miss Frankie Hathaway, of Sixteenth Street, Holland, Mich., says:

"I am twenty-one years old, at sixteen I was pale and weak. By the time I was nineteen years old I was so weak I could not walk across the floor. I was terribly emaciated and my skin had lost all color. The doctor pronounced the disease anæmia. Being advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I bought a box, and before I had taken all of the pills found that they were doing me good. Appetite increased and the healthy color began to show in my cheeks and lips. I continued to use the pills until I found myself permanently cured. Since then I have had no return of my old trouble. I know that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People saved my life and I believe that no other medicine could have done it."—From Ottawa Times, Holland, Mich.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, and all forms of weakness either in male or female.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are never sold by the dozen or hundred, but always in packages. At all druggists, or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., 50 cents per box, 6 boxes $2.50.
